Aspiring to Heights

Much of our time is spent on stairs where we pause before school or rush between classes. In stoic silence the stairs listen to our secrets, quarrels, and jokes — and they declare with granite certainity that we may aspire to greater heights.

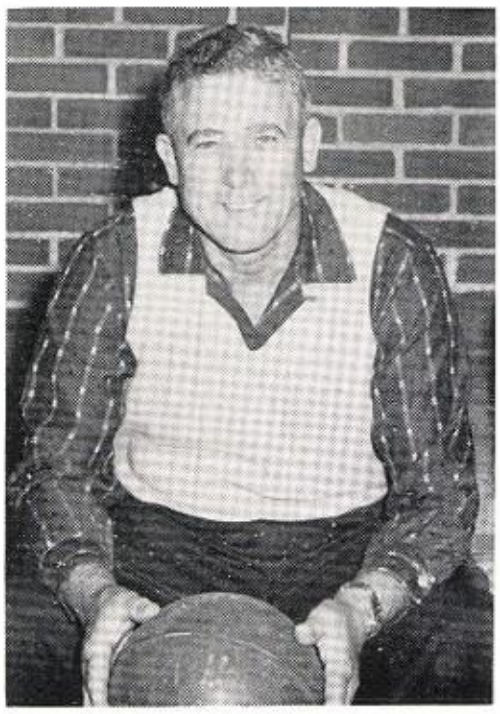
This volume of school history has been fashioned in the pattern of stairs because of their prominence in our memories and aspirations.

The Coach and Captain Ronald Ballard enjoy the pastry of victory.

As proficient with his fishing yarns as he was with basketball players, Coach Harley grins with pride.

Dedication

His ability to instill the fighting spirit into his players resulted in twelve titles — eight district, three bi-district, and one state. He is shown here with '59 Co-captains Johnny Fowler and Don Rosick.



Since this record of memories is the possession of every student who has walked through these halls, the dedication belongs appropriately to a person who embodies the collective spirit of the orange and black.

In appreciation for his courage, friendship, and loyalty, the 1960 edition of the Parrot is dedicated to Coach Jack Harley.

Typical of his friendly spirit, the Coach chats with Paschal Coach Charlie Turner prior to 1950 season.

There was no trace of his contagious laughter when he enforced training rules or plotted game strategy.

Who's Wh

KAY MORSE

Untangling complicated records for the senior magazine drive was a simple task for the forcible Kay Morse who is equally dependable spiking a volley ball or decorating a gym.

SUSAN DUNGAN

Getting in practice for a medical career, Susan Dungan recalls the decorations and food she planned for Leti parties, the humorous minutes she wrote for the art club, and the antics she performed at Future Nurses' meetings.

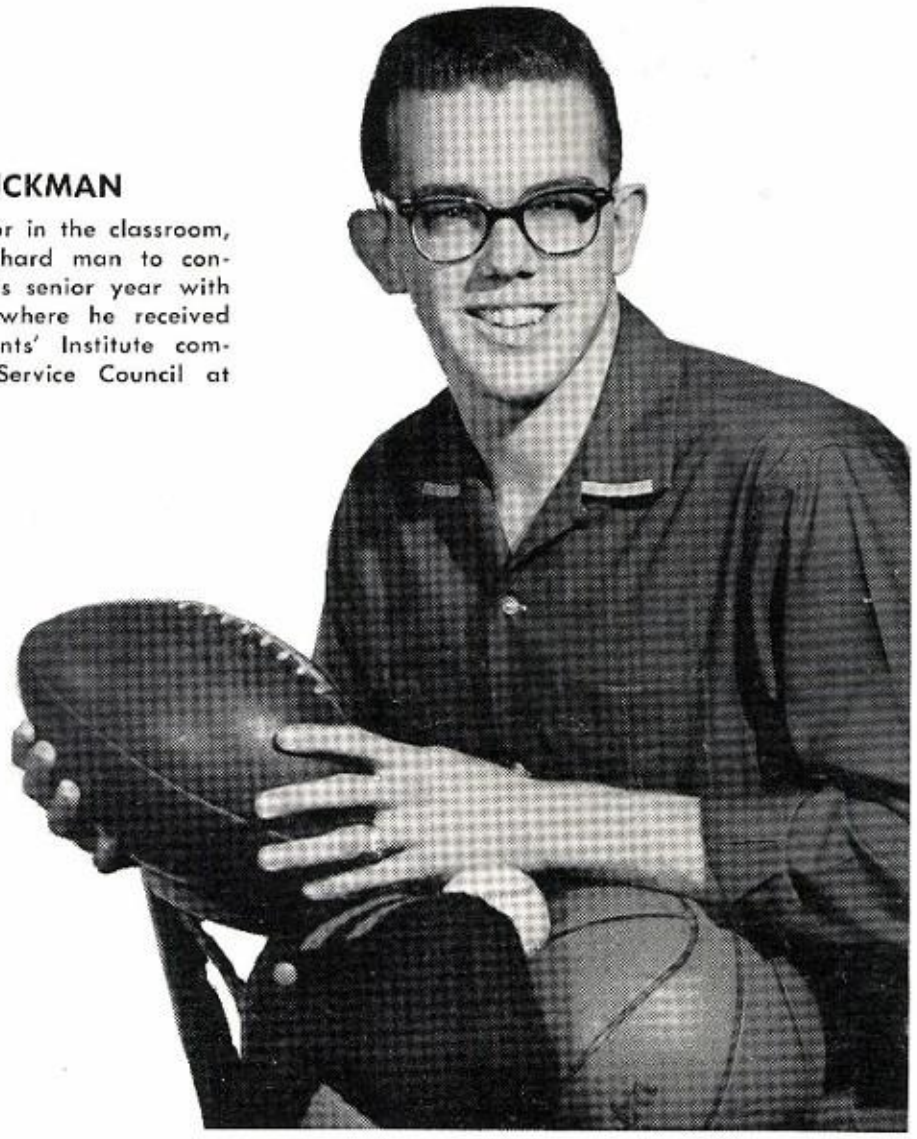
STEVE SMITH

Sometimes called a "crewcut Van Cliburn," Steve Smith has obtained many awards for his piano playing skills. He also presides over Bio-Chem-Phy and is a member of the National Honor Society.

n Poly

DAVID BUCKMAN

On the football field or in the classroom, David Buckman is a hard man to conquer. He climaxed his senior year with a trip to New York where he received an award from Parents' Institute commending the Youth Service Council at Poly.



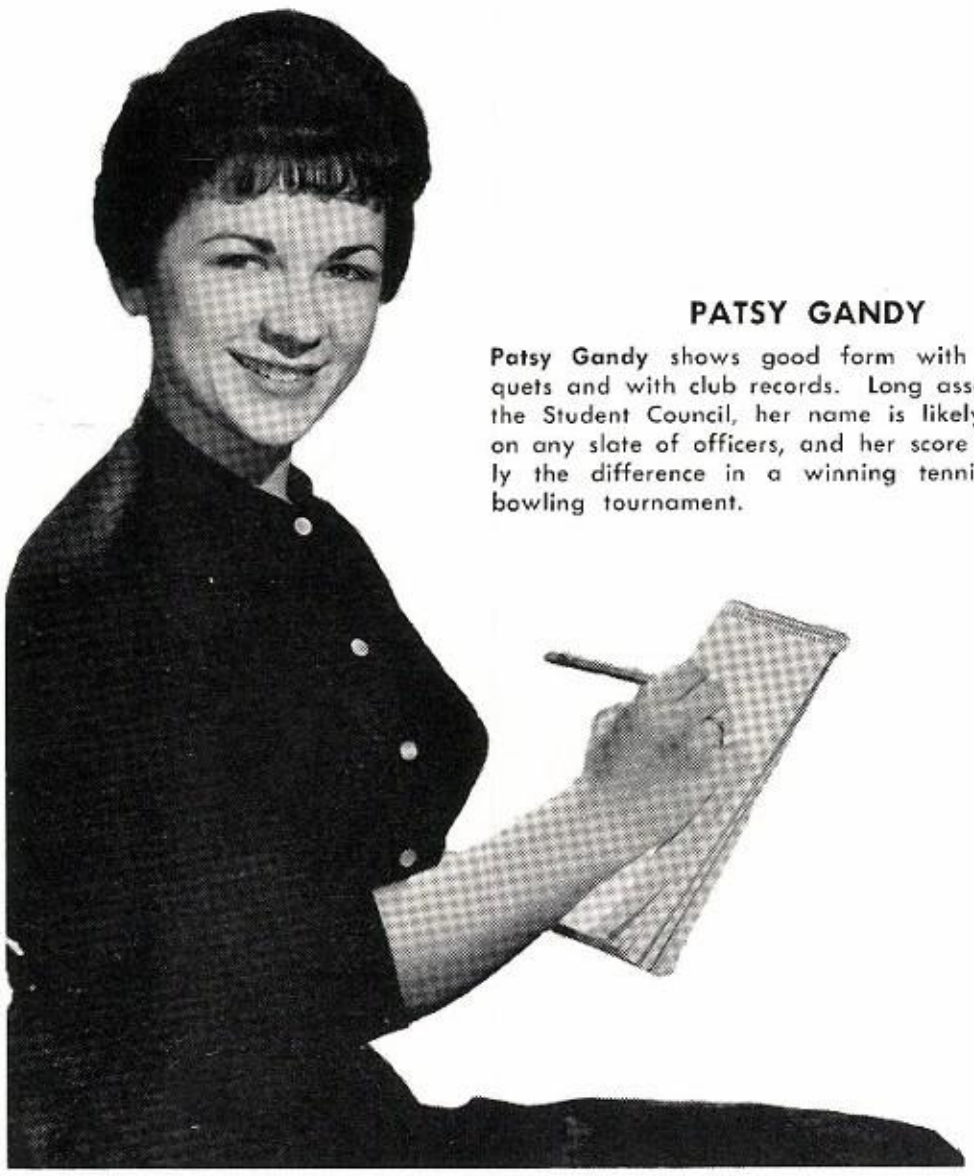
KAREN BRIGGS

The twenty-two charms dangling from Karen Briggs' bracelet testify to her versatility. Active in Leti, rhythm, and publications, she directs others with poise and consideration.

SUSAN BEYETTE

A perfectionist, Susan Beyette plans club parties with the same meticulous care that she gives classroom assignments. The unique poses of the yearbook favorite section illustrate her ingenuity.

Who's Wh



PATSY GANDY

Patsy Gandy shows good form with tennis racquets and with club records. Long associated with the Student Council, her name is likely to appear on any slate of officers, and her score is frequently the difference in a winning tennis match or bowling tournament.

JOE GUTHRIE

Taking honors in the Merit Scholarship Test was but one of Joe Guthrie's victories. Facets of his many-sided personality are expressed by diligent participation in bowling and band.

MIKE HENRY

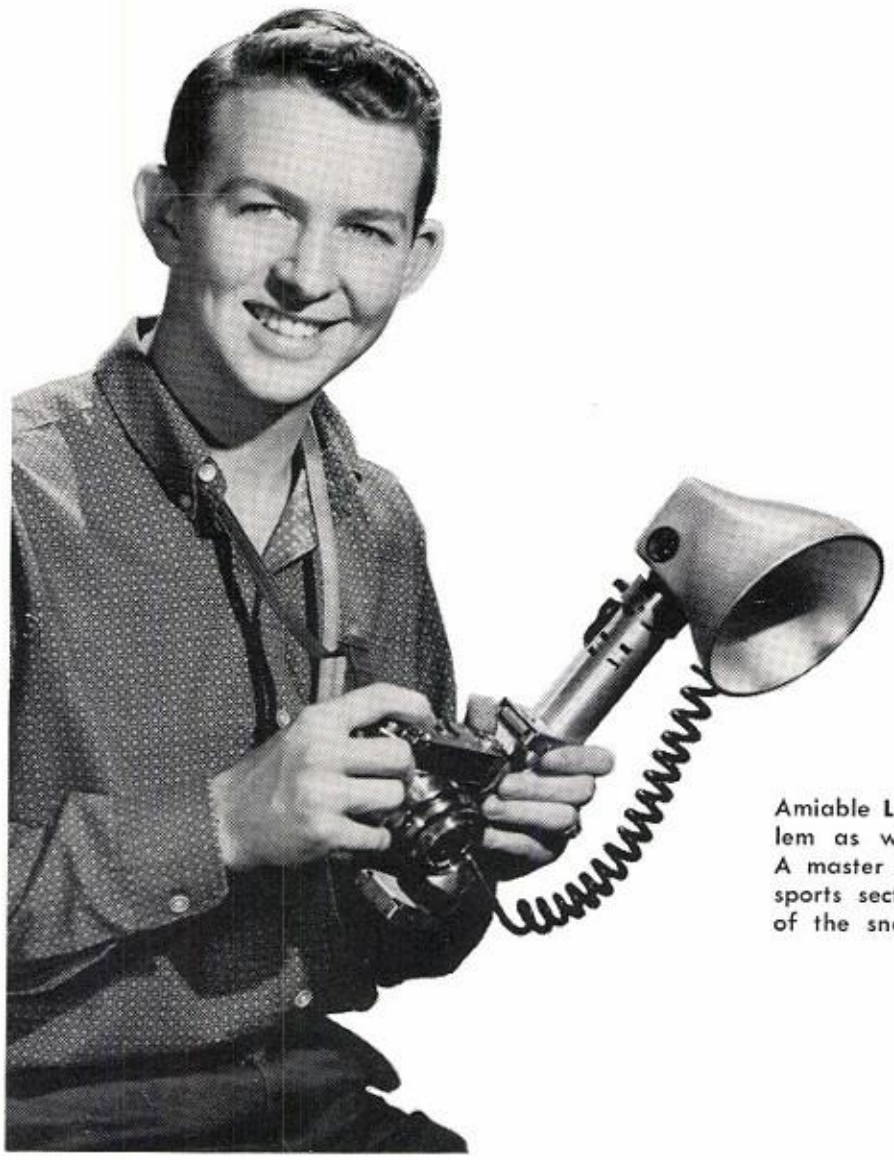
Mike Henry's witticisms are well known in numerous organizations. Whether debating in Student Council, swinging a tennis racquet, or playing in the band, he wins friends and recognition.

Joy,
It surely has been fun knowing you in high school. You are an exceptional person and the world's richest blessings will be yours.
Don't forget "Stooge".
Sincerely & with best wishes,
Mike Henry

h Poly

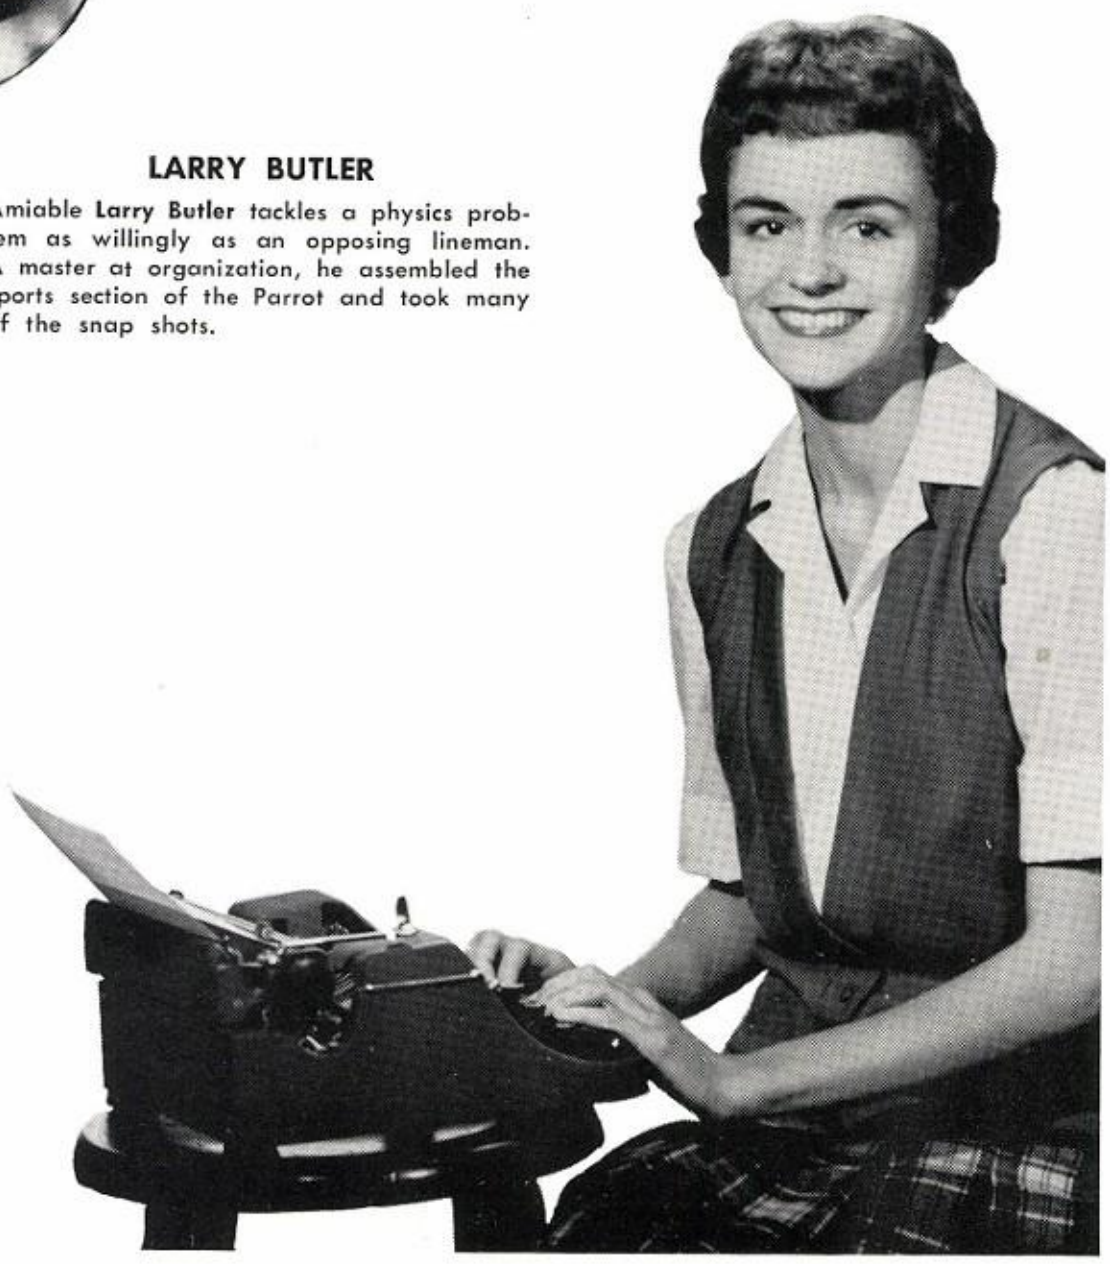
GALE WALTON

Parrot Editor Gale Walton designs layouts, schedules photographs, and types copy with the same charming efficiency that she arbitrates the staff disagreements and sweeps the yearbook room floor.



LARRY BUTLER

Amiable Larry Butler tackles a physics problem as willingly as an opposing lineman. A master at organization, he assembled the sports section of the Parrot and took many of the snap shots.



NANCY JORDAN

Despite the long hours Nancy Jordan spends editing and writing for the Parakeet, she maintains an enviable scholastic record and personal serenity.

C. A. Thompson

His voice is confident whether stern in reprimand, perceptive in consolation, or buoyant in encouragement.

With keen eyes, he searches out the indigent and the distressed, and with strong arms he guides them to stability.

Humble in victory, invincible in defeat, and fearless in turmoil, Mr. T is father to his students, friend to his staff, and the spirit of Poly High to everyone who knows him.

Superintendent J. P. Moore sits between his assistants David Sellars and W. A. Meacham. Mr. Meacham, who will retire this spring after 43 years with the Fort Worth Public School System, and Mr. Moore are former principals at Poly.

Administration

Understanding, stern, and efficient, Miss Evalyn Martel offers guidance and courage to girls who have insurmountable problems at school and at home. Through her discipline, they learn justice and through her council they learn prudence.

The door to Mr. Pat Dodson's office is always open to anyone with a joke or a problem. For 24 years, he has counseled derelict boys with his homespun philosophy and sound judgement.

Special Personnal

Roy Woodall
Head Custodian

Sgt. Jack Colclasure keeps his troops marching, his rifles firing, and his boys smiling. After closing the armory, he coaches the golf team.

Sgt. Robert Ohr helps enforce military regulations in the school army. Along with Sgt. Colclasure he teaches the boys obedience, loyalty, and endurance.

In directing the publications of both the Parrot and Parakeet and keeping an English class in keel, Mrs. Dorothy Estes has more than once put in a 12-hour day. Although relinquishing various holidays, she remains patient and understanding at all times.

People often wonder how Mrs. Patricia Edwards can be so ebullient about verbs and conjunctions. As head of the department, she sets other English teachers an example for creative projects.

English Department

Mrs. Dorothy Pratt's high standards have been responsible for the education of more than one good student and her patience, for the salvation of more than one weak one.

An efficiency expert in the classroom, Miss Emma Murphy has received national publicity for her unique Christmas decorations of dried okra and empty cans.

Lord Byron could never find a more devoted fan than Mrs. Marie Graves, English and guidance teacher. The auburn-haired instructor wins many friends by her understanding of human nature and sense of humor.

Double negatives and lazy students have a wretched time in Mrs. Maybelle Crouch's English classes. Though she assigns drills by the dozen, each student appreciates her guidance.

Englis

The smallest member of the English department, Mrs. Colleen Bethell, left a big vacancy when she resigned at mid-term to move with her husband to Greenwood, Miss., where he is music director for the First Baptist Church.

Four children and twenty miles do not disturb Mrs. Margaret Wood. She arrives at school early, cheerful and prepared after rushing her own children to school and driving from Arlington.

Probably the quietest member of the department, Miss Louise Langley is considered an excellent grammarian and an able teacher.

Few people could keep such close account of so many students, books, and records as Miss Nora Sue Ray. A wicked saxaphone player and a kind librarian, Miss Beverly Dotson kept books in students' hands until she was transferred to Meadowbrook Junior High at mid-term.

Department

Future Teachers benefit from the advice of Miss Ave White, veteran teacher, who resurrects Lady Macbeth and revitalizes diction for her classes.

Co-sponsor of the Future Techers, Mrs. Julie Landry uses both intimidation and inspiration in her composition exercises for English.

As choral and orchestra director, B. G. Ackert is responsible for much of the music that goes around Poly.

The Reverend D. E. Mines teaches a scholarly Bible course in the converted shack.

Fin

Mrs. Resa Oglesby inspires prize-winning collections of paintings, sculptures, and tapestry. After hours, she takes her students to local exhibits and museums.

In addition to a full schedule, Mrs. Julia Welch plans speeches, dinners, and films for Pan-American Forum members.

Whether directing a play or a graduation plan, Mrs. Almena Johnson remains aloof from confusion and pessimism.

Arts

Band Director G. P. Foeller began his public school career with top awards in marching and concert playing.

As Latin as Romulus, Mrs. Bessie Ellis' lessons have been enriched with photographs and lectures from her trip abroad last summer.

Charles Connally, who alternates between history and speech classes, serves as Junior Red Cross sponor, leading the group in its membership drive and Christmas project.

If Baseball Coach Harry Mullins seems to have a split personality, maybe it's because he doubles in football and baseball as well as in history and biology.

The fact that the lieutenant-colonel wears petticoats doesn't interfere with the ROTC sponsors. Mrs. Anabel Atkinson is serving her second year as sponsor for the Poly army and her third year as English and history teacher.

Histor

If Poly students escape lung cancer, they may have to give credit to Donald Norton, who is equally proficient as Safety Council sponsor, magazine drive chairman, or guardian of the boys' restrooms.

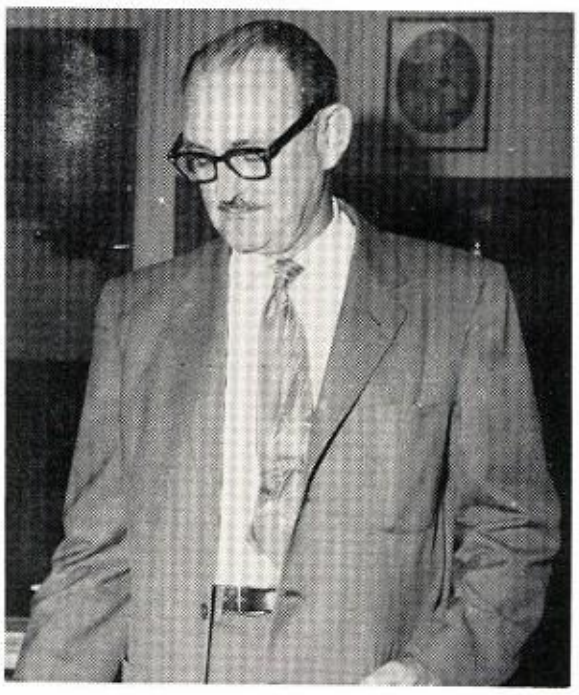
At home on ocean liners or water skis, Mrs. Dorothy Green relaxes after her history lectures by manufacturing and selling aqua-kribs, an invention she designed to bathe her young grandson.

A hard man to defeat at chess or football, Keith Averitte is champion track coach, study hall keeper, and history teacher.

Department

Ralph James presides over a student-made museum composed of miniature plantations, battlefields, and capitols. His classes frequently discuss historical events in panels and groups.

Room 211 might be called an arsenal of history. Not content with teaching facts, this head of department insists that students learn causes and effects. Miss Hope Stallings also sponsors the National Honor Society.



A grey Homburg set at a jaunty angle and a cocky bow-tie exemplify the nonconformist spirit of history teacher Joe Clark. Besides being well-versed in all aspects of history, Mr. Clark is also an accomplished writer.

The school's most popular chaperone, W. B. Cole probably holds the record for attending ball games, dances, and JCL meetings. In addition to his trips and extra-curricular activities, his history notes and tests are frequent subjects of discussion with students.

The annual watermelon and swimming party at John Hill's home each spring climaxes a year of debates and arguments about history and current events. Civics classes learn legal terms and courtroom procedure from a mock trial that begins with a crime and ends with a verdict.

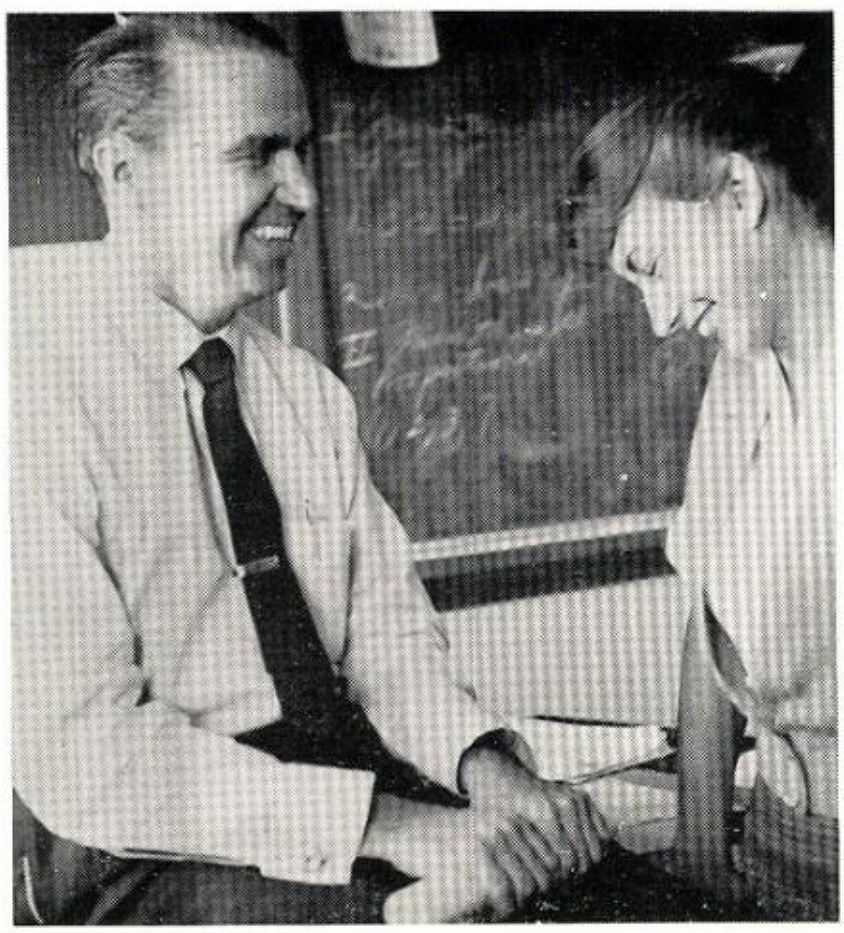
Stern, dramatic explanations of geometry and algebra linger in students' memories as a reminder of Mrs. Betty Smith, who left at mid-term.

Counselor, mathematician, and Allied Youth sponsor, Robert Sherrod moves from task to task with a positive effectiveness.

Mat

Whether he is in bell-bottomed trousers or blue serge ones, H. W. Patterson sets a fast pace for math students or athletes with his temperate habits and rigid training.

If given a choice, Mrs. Alta Ruth Davis would hold classes in a fishing boat off the shores of Lake Whitney.



Department

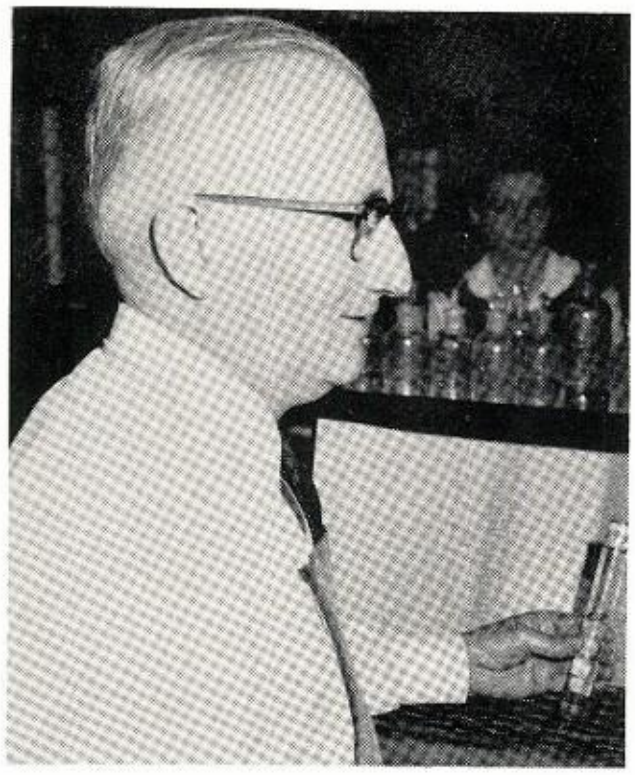
Although he was transferred to William James at mid-term, Bart Haltom left a big dent in the mathematics department and on the fairway.

If one of Miss Maurine Martel's students goes to the moon, he will either be proving the theories or escaping the assignments of this head of the mathematics department.

I have enjoyed you in home room and class. The best of luck to you
Maurine Martel

When Mrs. Ellen Plastino goes around in circles, they are always geometrically accurate. Meticulous by nature, Mrs. Plastino has few qualms about assigning home work and daily tests.

Teacher by profession, gardener by hobby, Kelly B. Adair astounds students with his precise approach to mathematics.



"Good boy, though . . ." is the solemn refrain heard frequently from Professor K. W. Dunkelberg, illustrating his dry humor. Bewildered students soon learn to expect anything under the direction of this chemistry tutor.

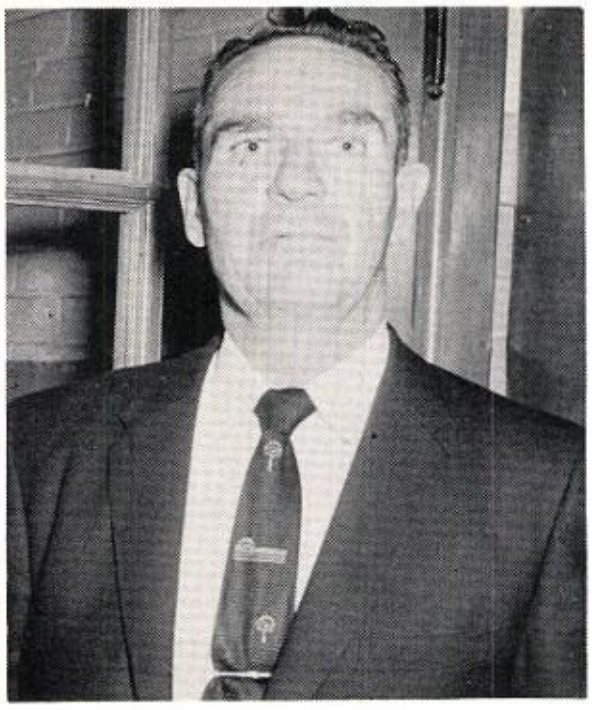
Cutting up frogs, adding up registers, or working on committees, Mrs. Martha Rawdon is fearless and competent. She is now teaching the children of her first students and is just as determined that all Poly students will learn the basic principles of biology.

Science Department

A little droopy-eyed from sleepless nights, Mac Watson is still the proudest papa in Poly. Applying physics problems to baby formulas, he conducts his would-be scientists in experiments and explorations.

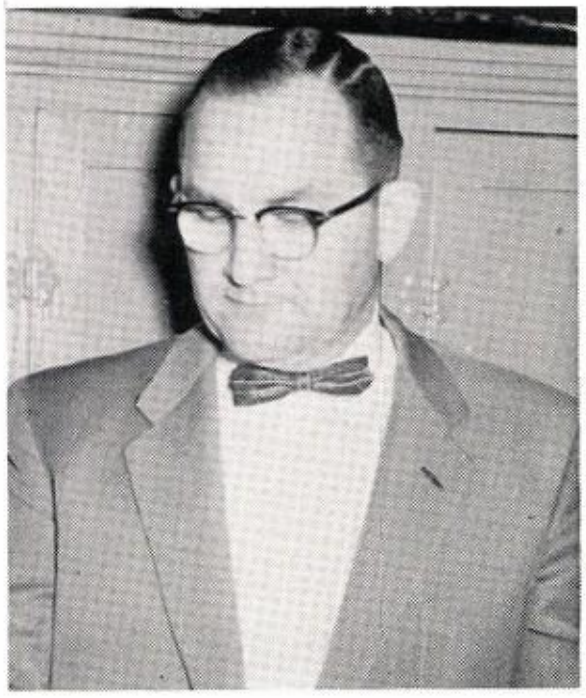
Weekly meetings of Leti preceded by cabinet planning keep Miss Katherine Rose rushing but enthralled. Under her guidance, the club earns its own money and gives it to deserving people. From eight until four she can be found dissecting grasshoppers and cats.

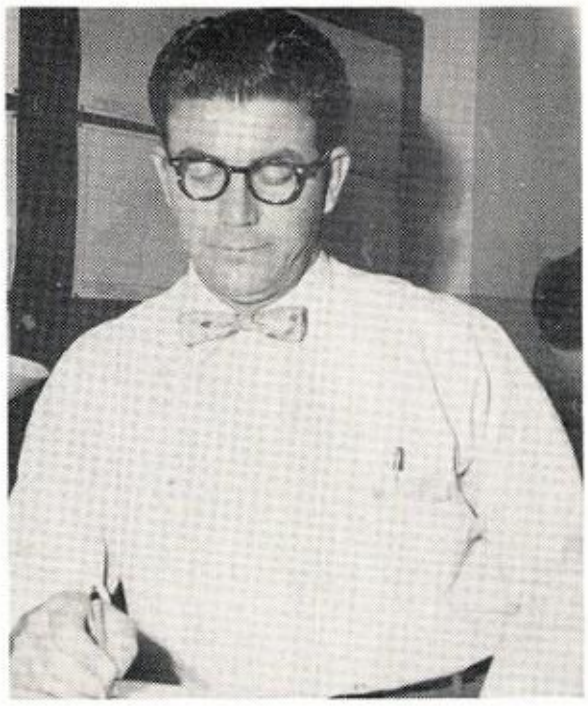
Providing for his growing menagerie and collection of plants seems to be the favorite pastime of guitar-picking, biology teacher J. W. Lade. He is often seen smuggling food from the cafeteria for his little pets.



Neither the heat of welding torches nor the cold of parking lots distract Clyde Butler as a craftsman in metal shop or a leader of boys.

Quick to mend broken furniture and slow to lose his temper, R. L. Boyd instructs boys in the use of shop equipment as they construct chairs, beds, and tables which the mothers enjoy while the boys are wife shopping.





Much of the confusion caused by floating teachers was solved by signs lettered in O. D. Adair's mechanical drawing classes. His special interests are the cattle he has raised and the new course he has pioneered in descriptive geometry.

Industrial and Domestic Arts

From mudpies to souffles is a big step, but Mrs. Emily James makes the transition a painless one for her young chefs. In addition to being adept at concocting rare delicacies, she is also an able seamstress and talented musician.

Under Mrs. Mara Evans' direction, inexperienced girls complete wardrobes and learn home management. The girls explore every facet of homemaking from floral arrangement to furniture selection.

As head of the business department, Mrs. Tommie Phipps sets a fast pace for students and other teachers. Typing, commercial law, and bookkeeping students have learned to walk in the door with books open and minds alert.

Students may slink into Miss Edith Hudson's distributive education classes, but they walk out with shoulders straight and pants pressed. She drills them with sales techniques each morning at school and inspects them for sales results each afternoon on the job.

Commercial Department

No matter how many thumbs her students seem to have when they enroll in typing, Mrs. Joyce Calhoun usually finds a key to fit every thumb. She has been called a model of charming efficiency as a mother and as a teacher.

When competing in the fierce business world after graduation, commercial students appreciate the skilled direction they have received under Mrs. Clara Dillard, typing and shorthand teacher. This petite brownette concentrates on the essentials of keeping a job for later years.

As a talented organist and an accurate typist, Mrs. Florence Huddleston proves the value of dexterous and agile fingers. This smiling artist guides nimble and clumsy hands to accomplish smooth and speedy typing.

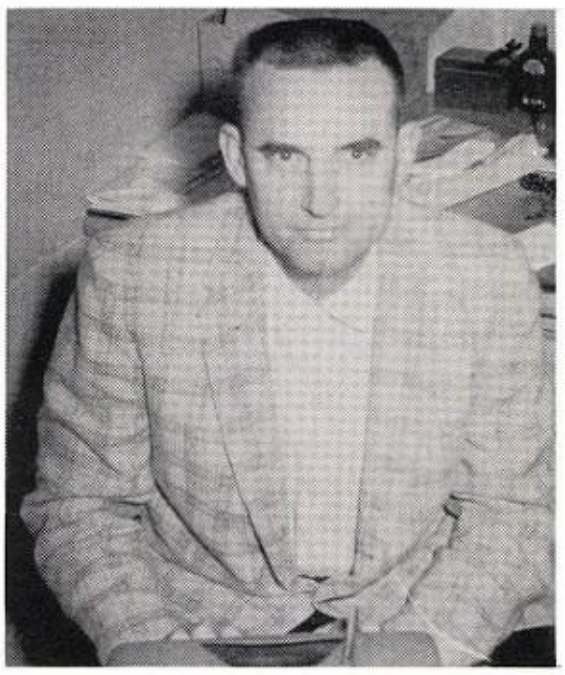
No title has been devised to include the multiple duties of Mrs. Evelye Reeves. As sponsor of the cheerleaders, she directs all pep rallies. As teacher of rhythm, she plans all choreography. As friend, she keeps Poly at its best.

Limited equipment and facilities have no effect on this veteran teacher, Miss Cecil Owens, who keeps the balls bouncing in her classes. After hours she keeps a watch over her pet dogs.

Girls are kept trim and agile with exercises and dances in Miss Lucy Richardson's classes. Completing her first year as a school marm, Miss Richardson coaches the tennis class and tennis club.

Physical Education Department

Diagramming English sentences or football plays, Coach Jack Whitley wields a firm hand. His poise in conflict and his courage in defeat command the respect of both students and teachers.



Going to Bi-District the first year he was in Poly, Coach Weldon Moody proved himself an able leader and teacher. Remaining calm and considerate at all times, he has gained the favor of his fellow workers and of all students.

During his first year at this school, Coach Charles Sealy revolutionized boys' PE. Stressing uniforms and participation, he instigated an intramural program in football, basketball, and baseball.

the Organization

Student Council Officers are: Patsy Gandy, Vice-President; Susan Beyette, Secretary; Max Sims, President.

Student Council

The members of this governing body are chosen as representatives by the student body. Their annual projects included a pie and cake sale, and a box supper on campus followed by a red sock-hop in the gym. The Student Council has proven to be a rewarding and necessary part of Poly.

Traffic Safety Council

Beginning its first year at Poly, the Youth Traffic Safety Council has proven its importance many times. During the year it compiled information on cars driven to school by students, made posters for the halls, and passed out detailed statistics about safe driving. The Council also won the Fort Worth Safety Flag, which they presented to Mr. Thompson.

Future Teachers

The purpose of the FTA is to promote the interests of students in the teaching profession.

Activities consisted of a convention in Denton, regular meetings, and the traditional telegram-service on Valentine's Day.

In the spring the Future Teachers had the opportunity of spending one day observing and practice-teaching in elementary classes.

Opening the year's activities with a membership tea, Leti was well on its way to being one of the largest and most active clubs in Poly. Many bruises were the results from the "Powder Puff" football game played in November, but their Homecoming and Christmas dances left happy memories to many. By helping two needy families and collecting money for the March of Dimes, Leti completed their service projects.

Leti

The Spring proved very humorous and memorable for those in Leti.
The season began with an Easter Parade, using boys as models. The fashions consisted of everything from swim suits to evening gowns. The socials consisted of the spring formal given at the Woman's Club and the traditional brunch and splash party at Western Hills Hotel.
Awards were given to outstanding service workers.

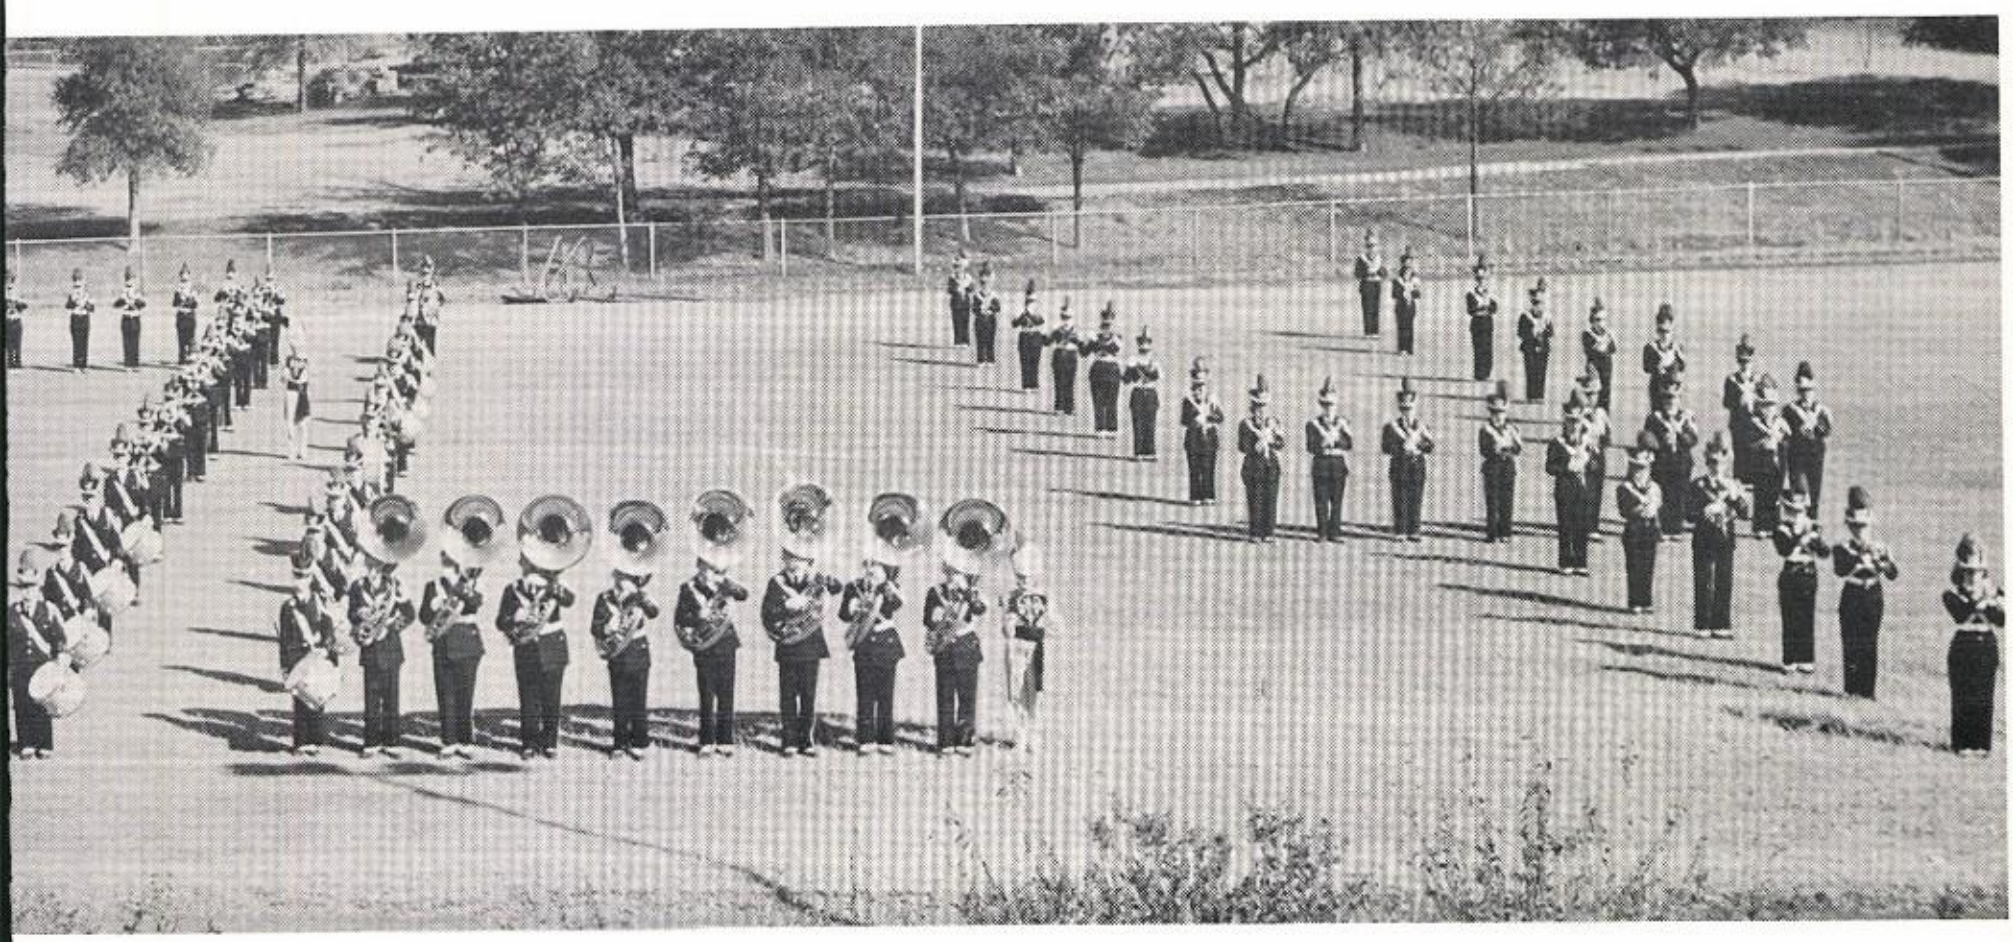
Consistently a first division band, the 130 marching musicians added a novel touch in their performance as the outstanding large band at the University of Texas Band Day. A rank of eight bell lyre players united with the percussion section to supply continuous music as the Poly group led the parade. This innovation has delighted audiences at ball games, parades, and contests.



ng 100

Into a trophy filled office pours a deluge of invitations for the five performing organizations of the Polytechnic High School Band. Although Director George Foeller is compelled to decline two-thirds of the invitations, he wields his baton at least twice weekly over some segment of the orange and black clad group, who specialize in precision marching and dance routines.

The Band Council, executive branch of the Marching 100, makes social and financial plans for the group. Working with the Booster Club, they sponsored bake sales and spaghetti dinners to raise funds for transporting the band. They are shown here plotting a maneuver for a football game.

Concert Band

For concert purposes, a select group of seventy form the representative symphonic band, performing grade III through V literature. The remainder are assigned to a second concert group which emphasizes technical development through the use of grade I through III literature.

The symphonic band's appearances include numerous school activities, several selected band festivals, as well as an annual February concert.

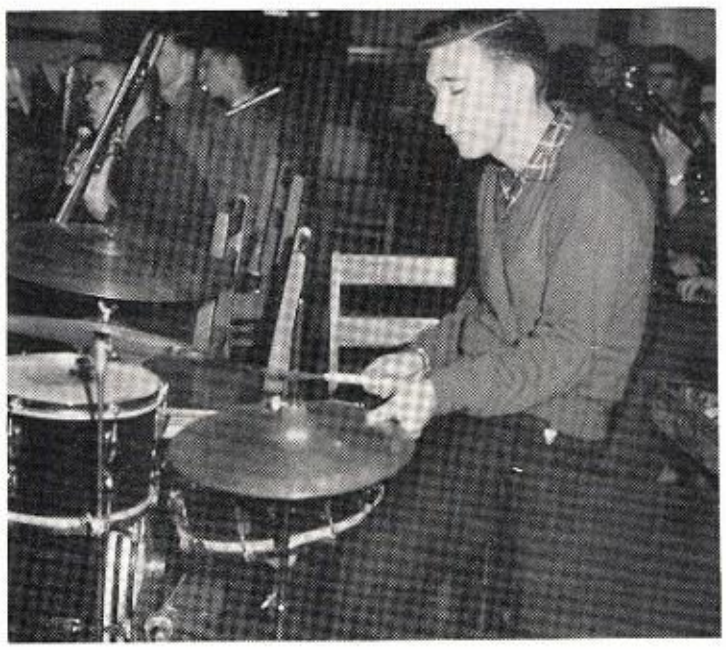
Two seven-piece groups operate within the larger stage band — a dixieland combo and a modern combo. Together with acts originated by ingenious band members, these groups frequently provide entertainment for service club meetings and dances.

Band Director George Foeller examines a copy of First Chair of America, official publication of the national honorary music organization.

Mr. Foeller directs the stage and marching bands as well as the beginning and advanced concert groups.



The stage band consisting of 17 musicians and one girl vocalist needs a full-time booking agent. Activities for this year include such events as the Miss Texas, Miss Fort Worth Pageants, the Miss Flame contest, the state convention of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce as well as numerous dances and shows.

The Parrots

Brimming with jarring tackles and bruising blocks, the 1959 Poly grid produced all the usual characteristics expected of a high school football team. Some how the Parrots just never came out on the long end of the score.

An uphill climb all the way, the pre-conference duration was especially rocky. It took Poly until the Weatherford game to get used to the feel of gridiron turf under their cleats. An official's flag kept the Parrots from tying or possibly winning the game when a breakaway twenty-two yard touchdown dash was called back.

Comfortably cushioned on their laurels, the '58 district champs, the Carter Riverside Eagles, took advantage of the Parrots' injury riddled ranks and bowled them over on their way to their second consecutive crown. After opening against the strong Eagles, Poly settled itself for rough sailing.

Right: Mountain of Meanness — Jimmy Humphrey, Don Heizer, Gailand Priddy, Norman Maize, Johnie Bentley.

The bright spot on the Orangemen's '59 grid record was the Arlington Height's tilt. The Jackets who were slated to take the championship, couldn't push over a touchdown against the fired-up Parrots' defense. In the fourth quarter Poly scored the winning touchdown, but a penalty brought it back. The game which ended in a scoreless tie was heralded the best effort of the Parrots' season.

Despite the spirit of Homecoming in the air, the dark-horse Parrots fell victim to the Paschal Panthers, a bitter rival. Showing obvious improvement in the previous games, hopes were high, but ended in a decisive loss.

Optimist's dreams were dampened as the Northside Steers surged past the Parrots. For the first time since 1955 the Tech Bulldogs sacked the Poly Parrots and the season ended a nightmare in reality.

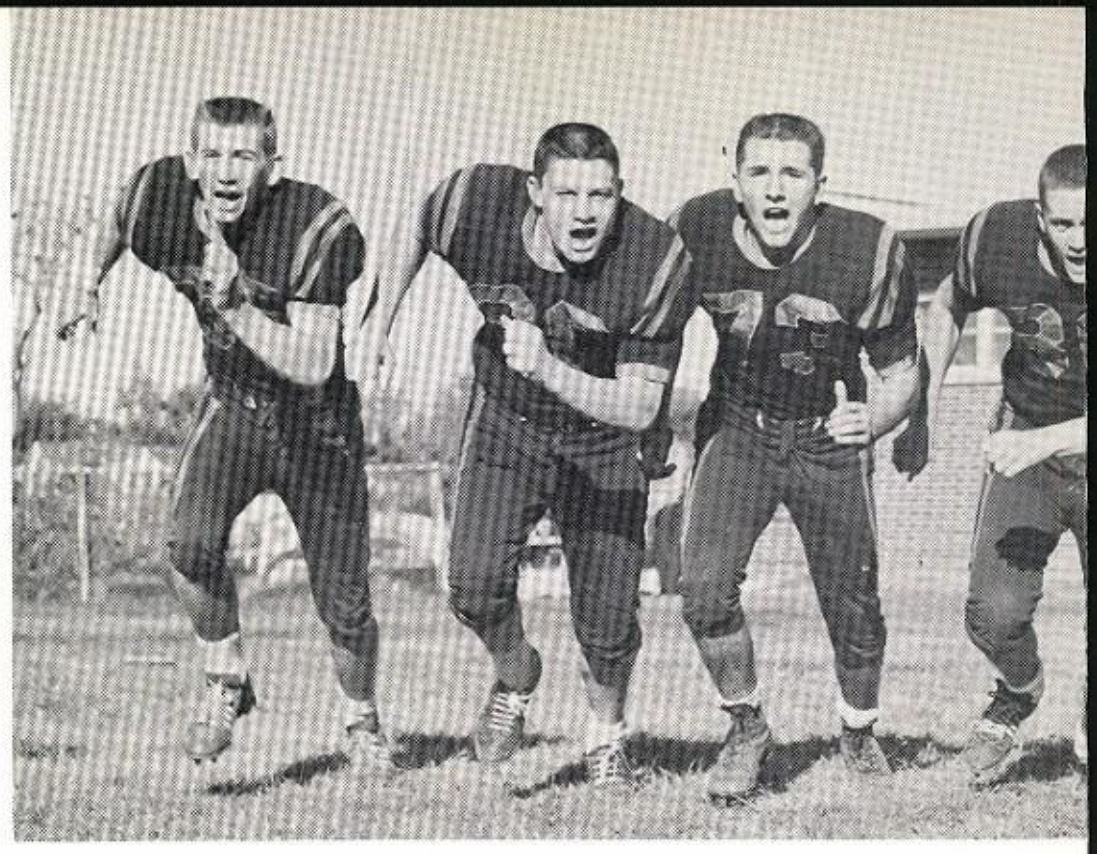
Below: Poly's fine coaching staff is shown in a group; Jack Whitley (left) met with some hard luck in his initial season as head coach, but he has laid a foundation for his teams of the future. Moving to the right, we find Harry Mullins, beginning his second year as baseball coach. Next, Charles Sealy, Keith Averitt, Weldon Moody joined the staff just this year. Sealy responded with double winning teams in his "B" football and basketball teams. Track is being coached by Averitt, who also coached the football linemen. A tremendous season was had by Moody, whose "A" basketball team was undefeated in district play.

The Commandos

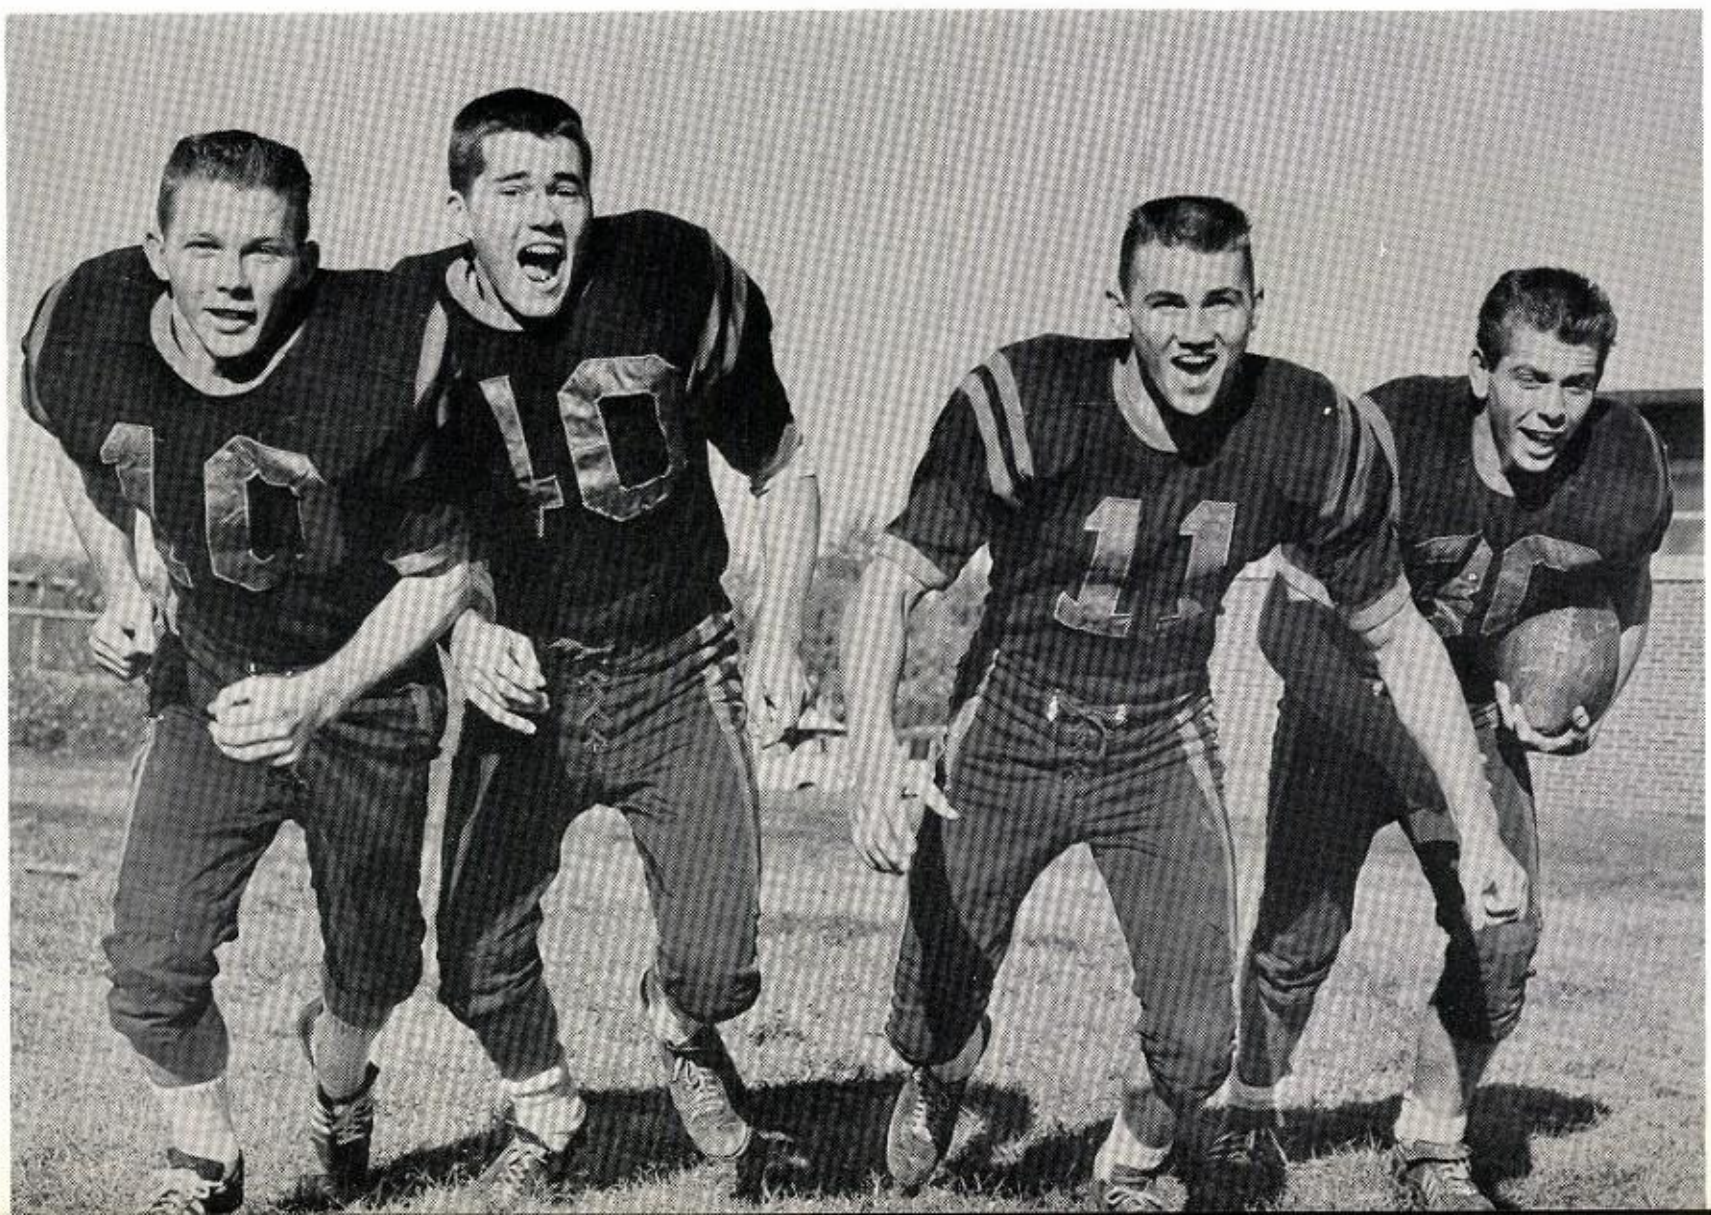
Galloping through an undefeated season, the Poly Commandos reigned as district "B" team champ.

The Commandos opened pre-conference play against Sanger and brought home a victory. Next on the schedule, the wet-behind-the-ears Eastern Hills Highlanders also fell victim to the young Poly football machine.

Exhibiting a crushing defense and versatile offense, the Commandos pushed past the larger, more experienced Aledo "A" team. By managing to tie the Orangemen, the Arlington Colts put the only mar on the otherwise perfect pre-conference record.



Commandos Out to Kill: Glenn Gregory, Jerry Seaman, Paul Anderson, Wayne Horton.



Commandos Charge to Victory: Bernie Stuart, Lester Yoder, Jerry Lee, David Dutton.

In conference play a strong Heights' team tied the East Side boys, but in the following games no others managed to stay within a stone's throw of them. Behind the tosses of Glen Gregory to his halfbacks and ends along with the bulldozer running plays, the Commandos racked up the rest of their opponents by run-away scores.

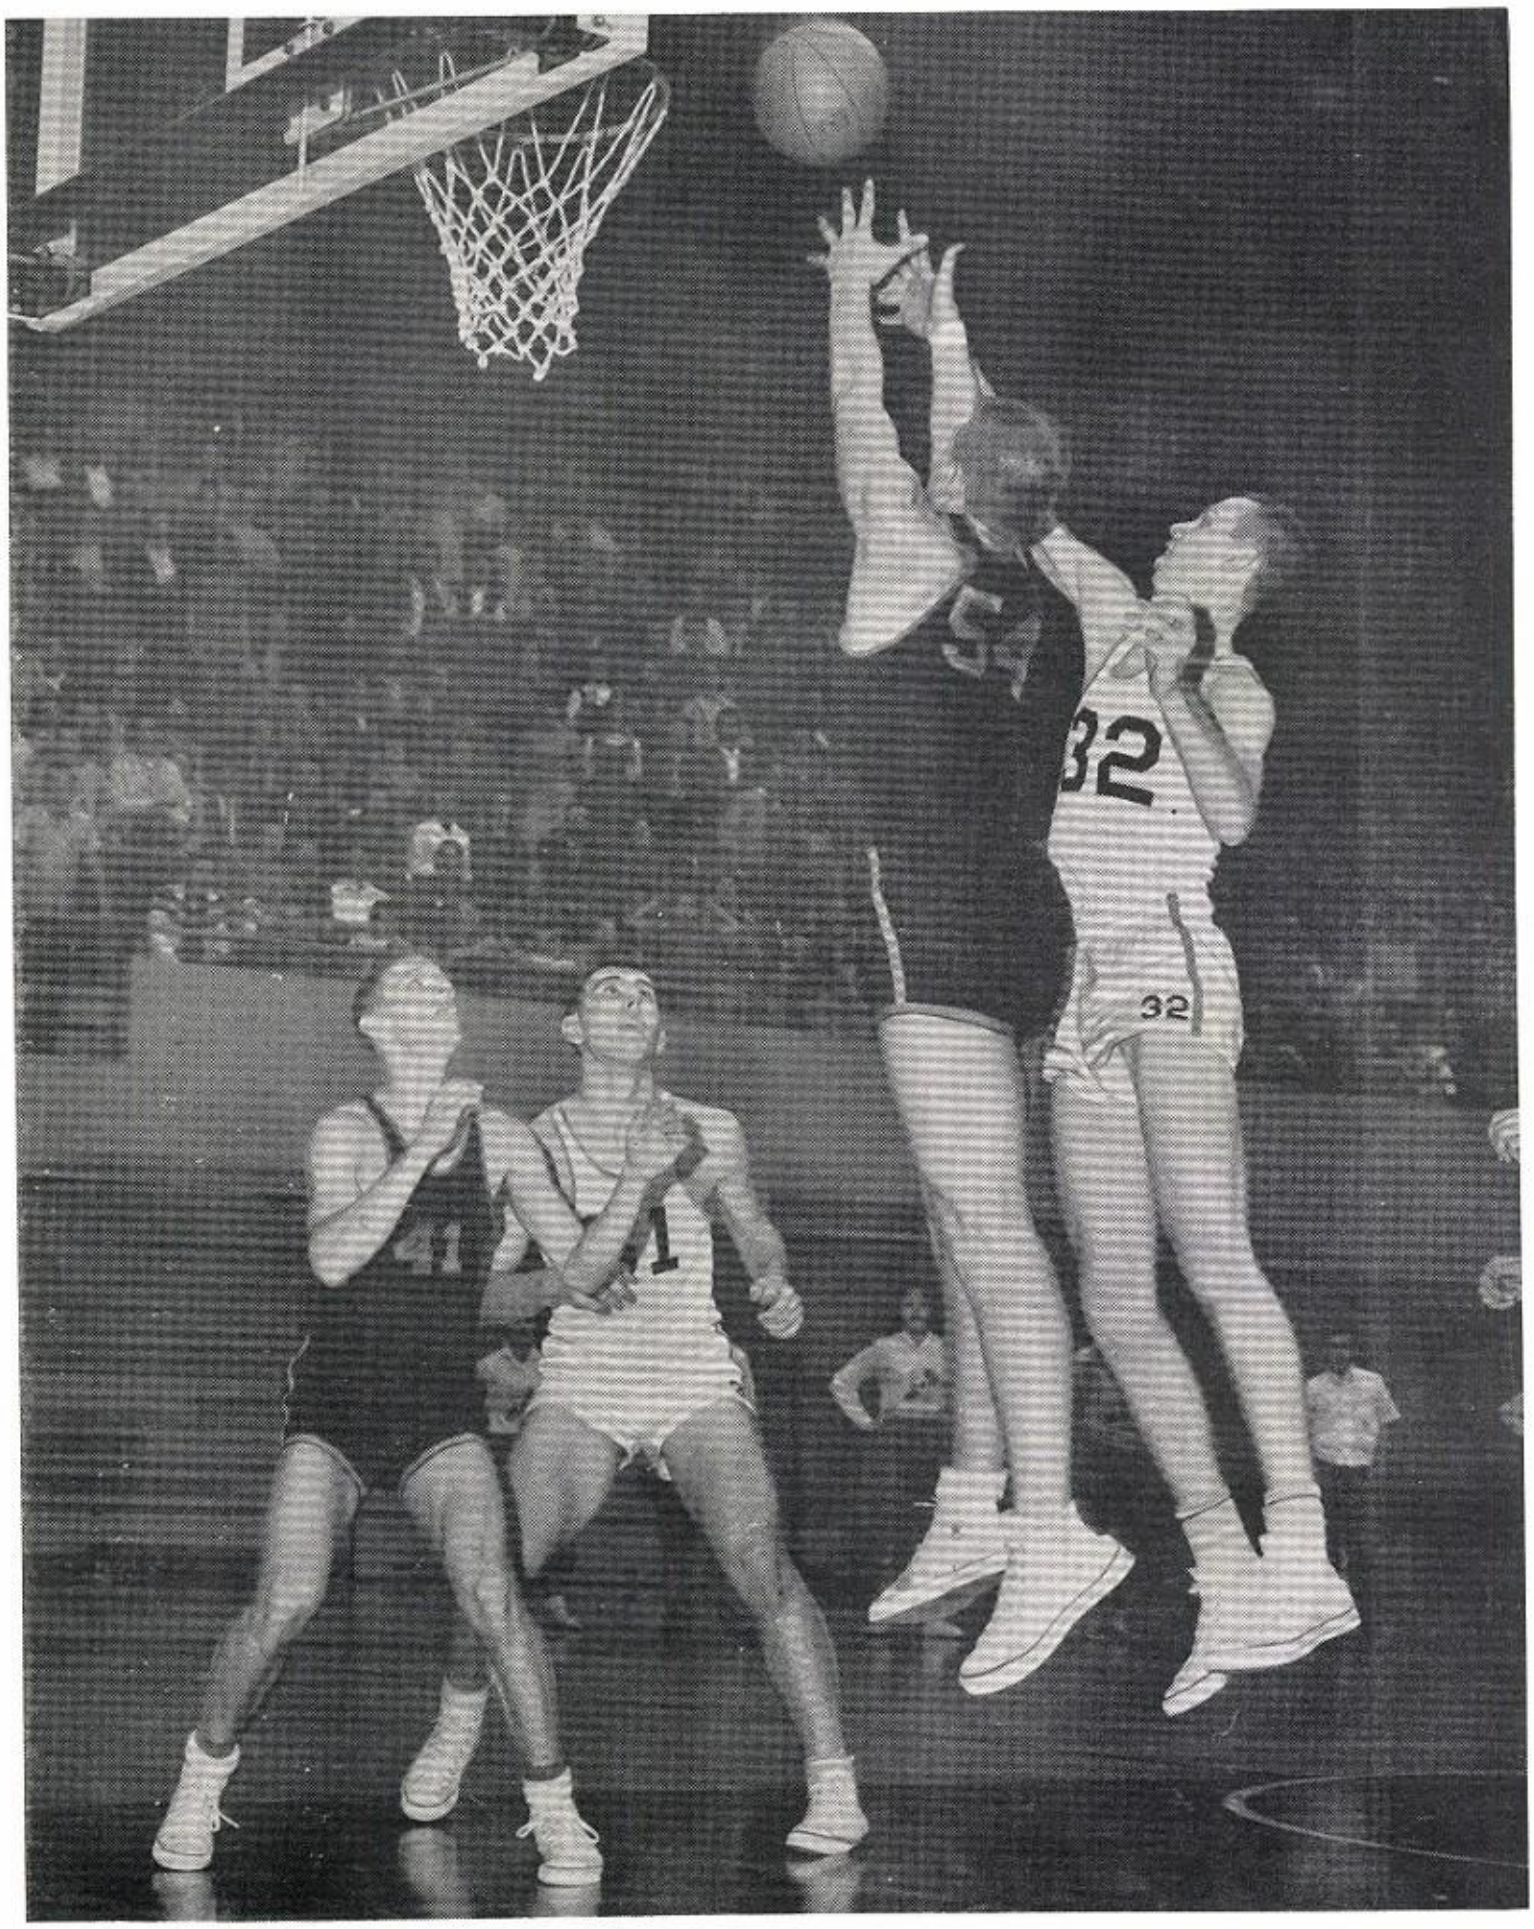
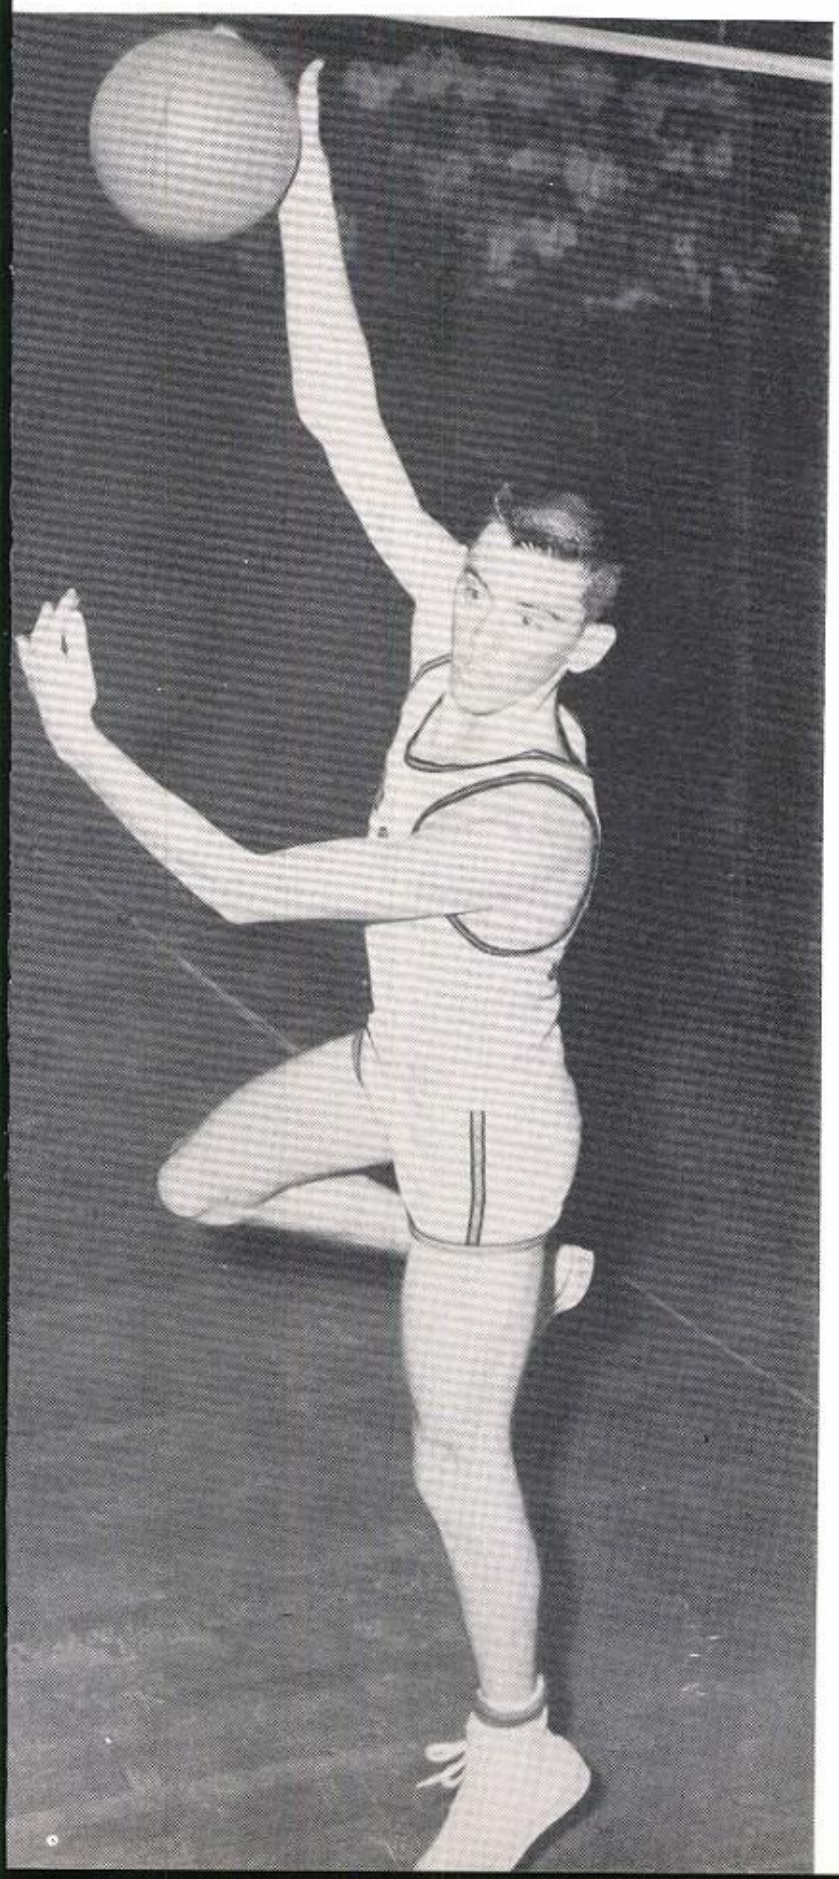
Basketball



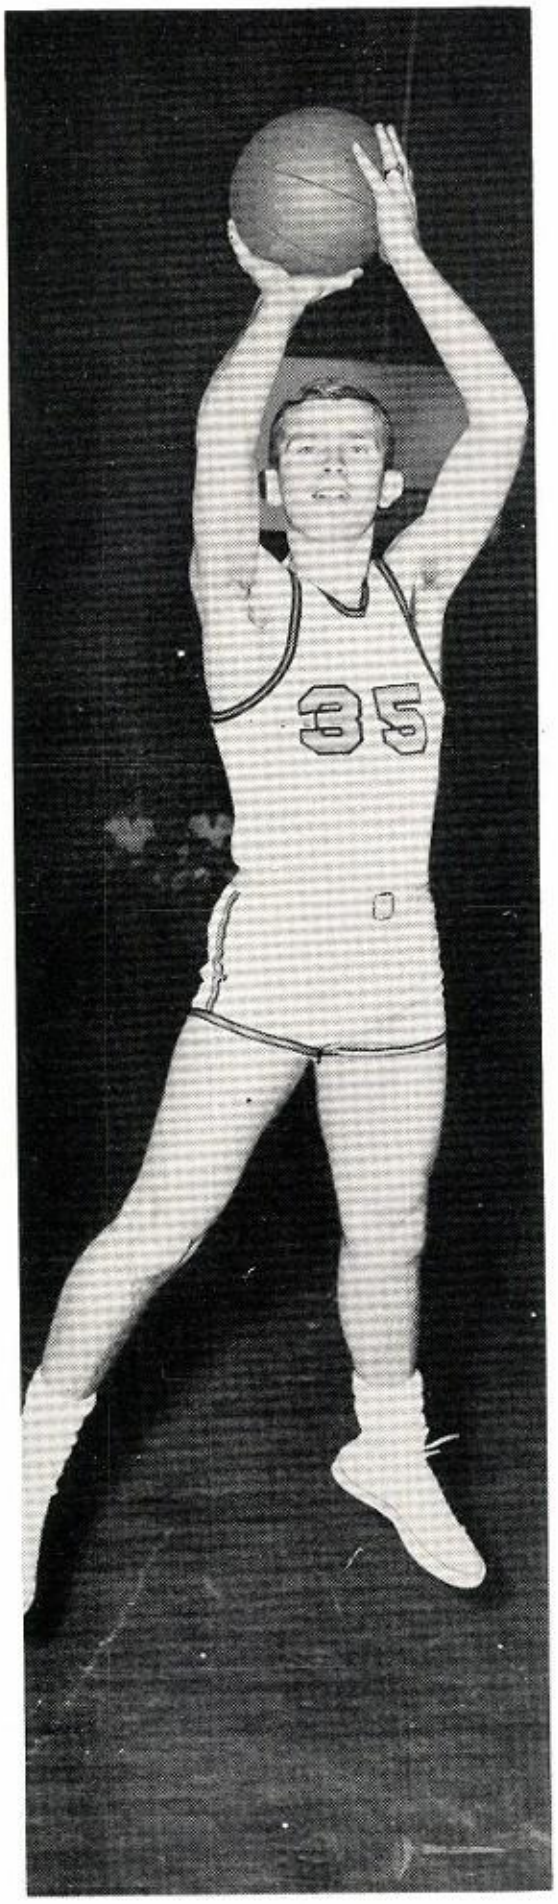
Douglas Slate, 41, remains in a fixed position awaiting Tom Heikkinen's, 54, return to earth as Tom grapples with a South Oak Cliff boy for a rebound just off the board. Poly, even though they played a great game, lost to South Oak Cliff by a narrow margin of three points.

Number 1 reserve, Ben Neel, canned 65 per cent of his field goal attempts, only 1 per cent off the pace. Another two year letterman, Ben adapted the feint, playing post with the ability to go either left or right.

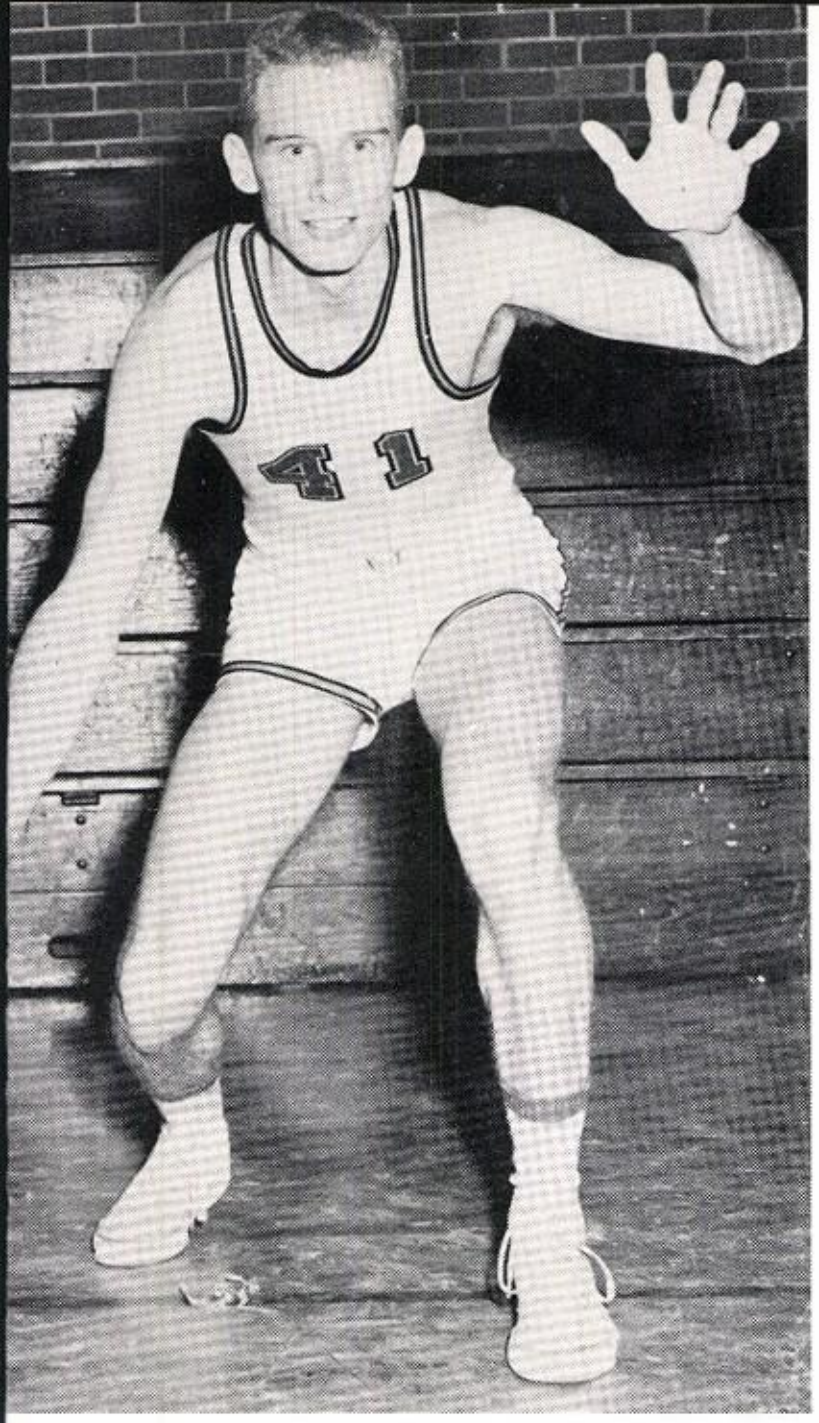


One of the rugged board men is forward Johnie Bentley. One more year on the court awaits him, and his aggressiveness will surely be valuable.

Although Joe Glenn saw less playing time than some of the others, he took advantage of his chances at foul shooting to bang in 77 per cent... He played steady ball even in critical moments and earned his second letter.

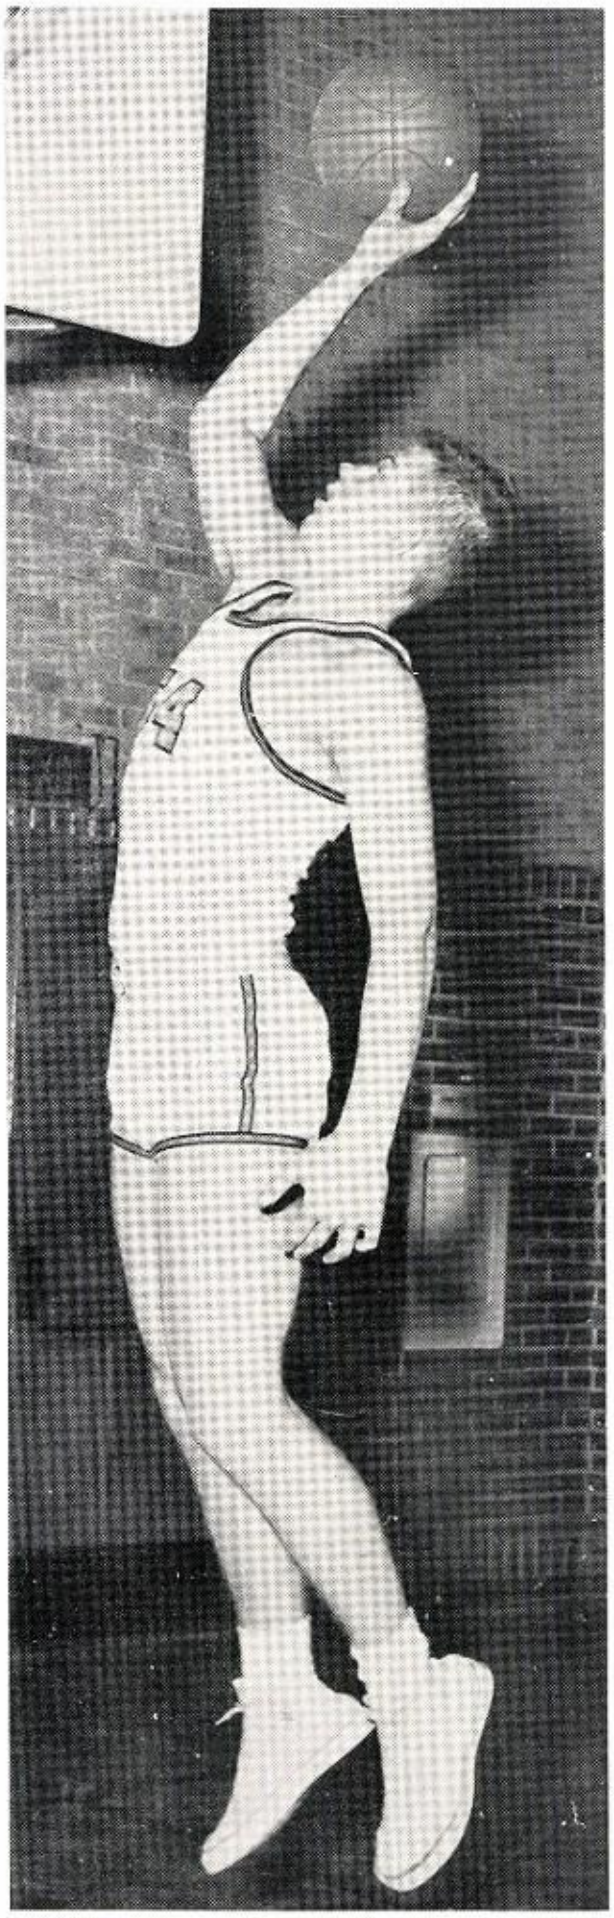


Scoring leader for the Parrots this year was three year letterman and co-captain, Tommy Robbin One of the components of the fast break, Tomm relied upon dazzling layups and uncanny lon shots for most of his points. His ball-hawking passing, and faking were often crowd pleasin while also effective. Tommy captured the spo light in honors by being named to the All-Stat 2nd team, and the Press and Star Telegram Al District teams.

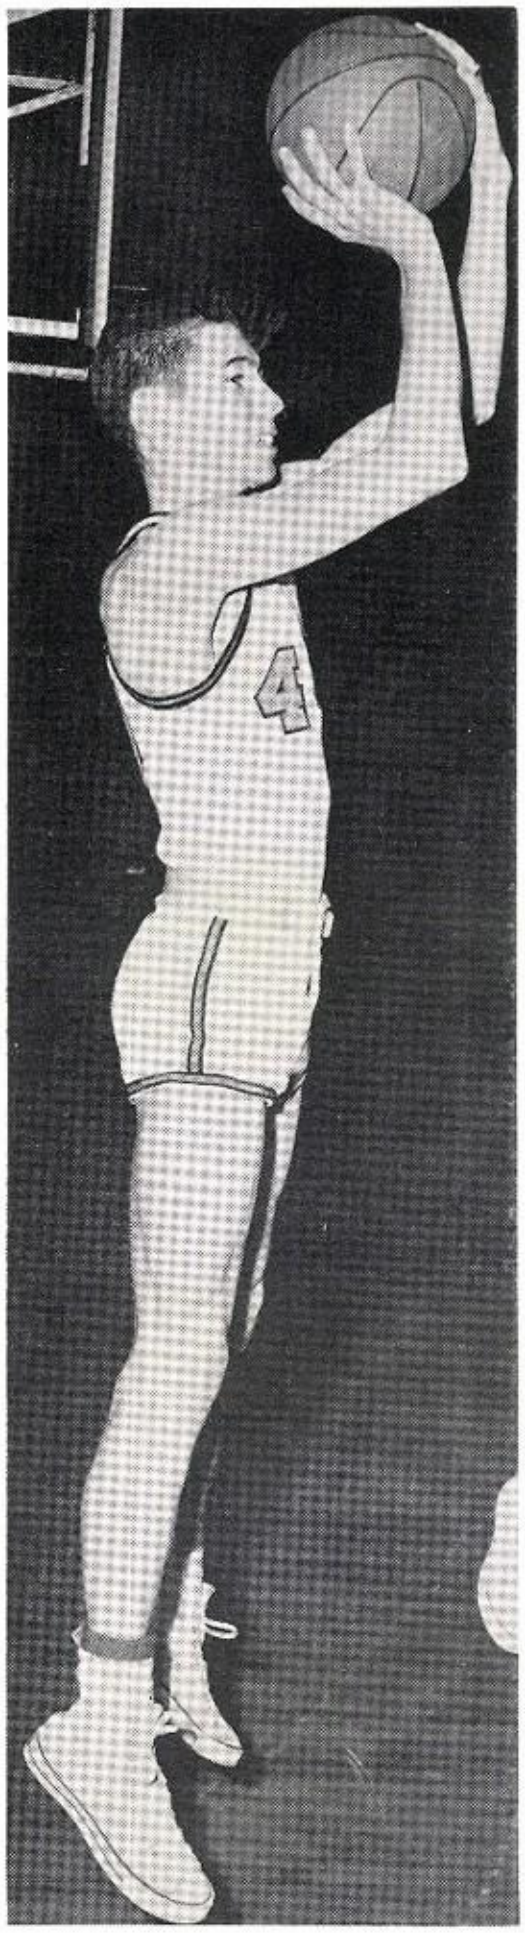


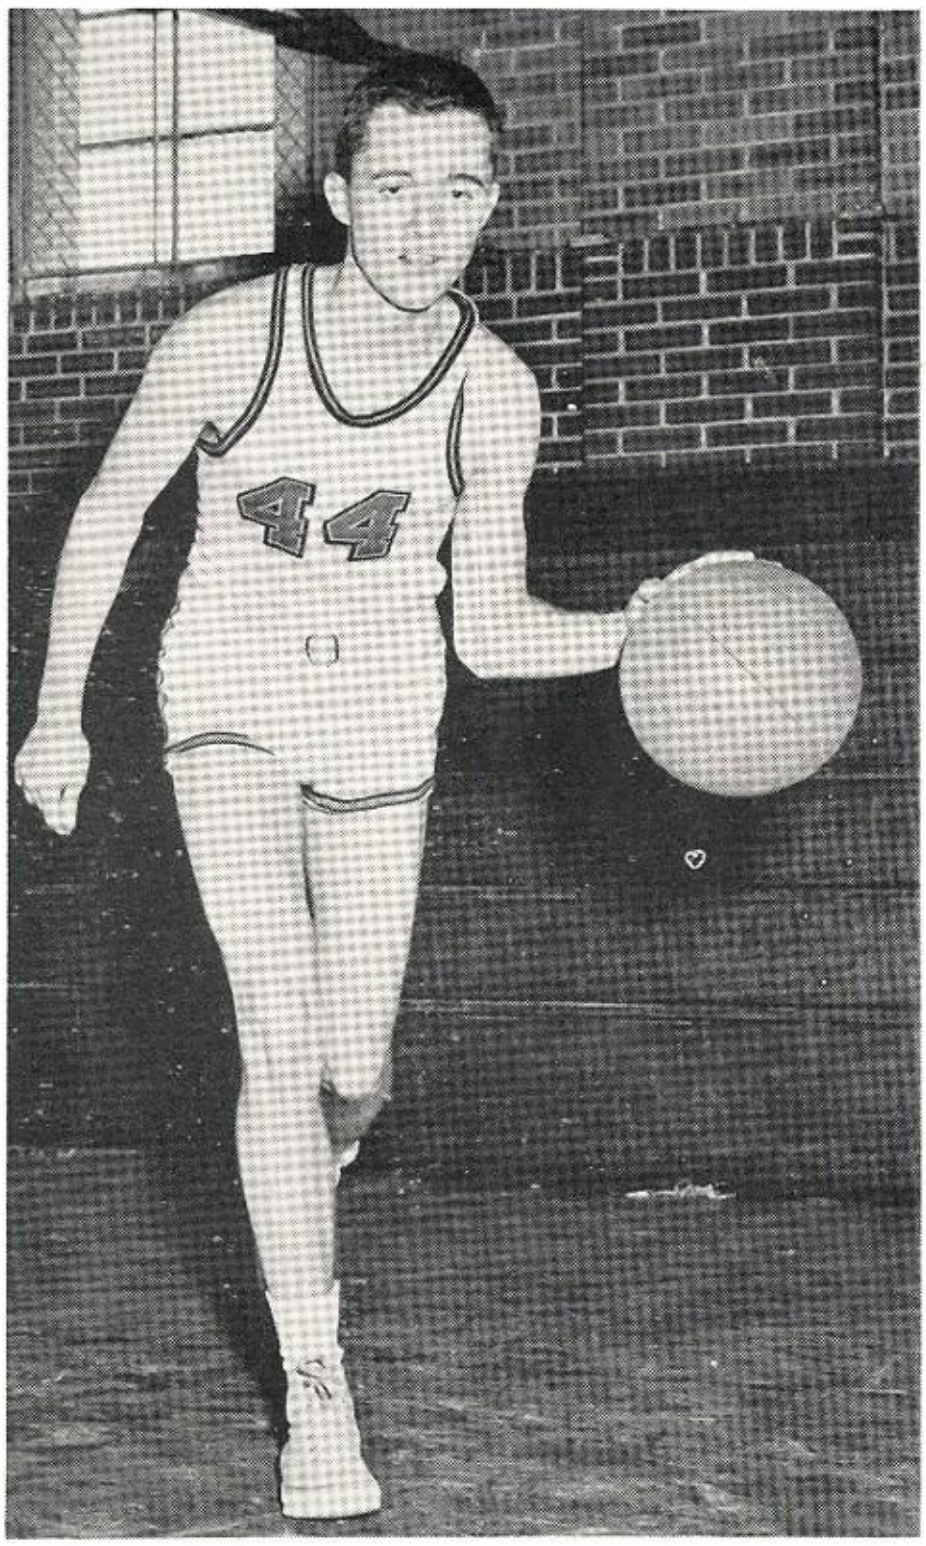
oug Slate, co-captain, and two-year letterman, lead in free throw ercentage. With coolness and concentration under pressure, Doug onnected with 65 per cent efficiency. The defense ace, Doug con- ibuted much to the team with sharp passing and a rate of 7 per ame in rebounds.

Another two-year letterman, Tom Heikkenen, took the lead in rebounds and field percentage. Height and weight contributed to his ability in clearing the boards. Tom averaged 16 rebounds a game and hit 56 per cent from the field. He broke the school record with 14 straight charity tosses in a game.

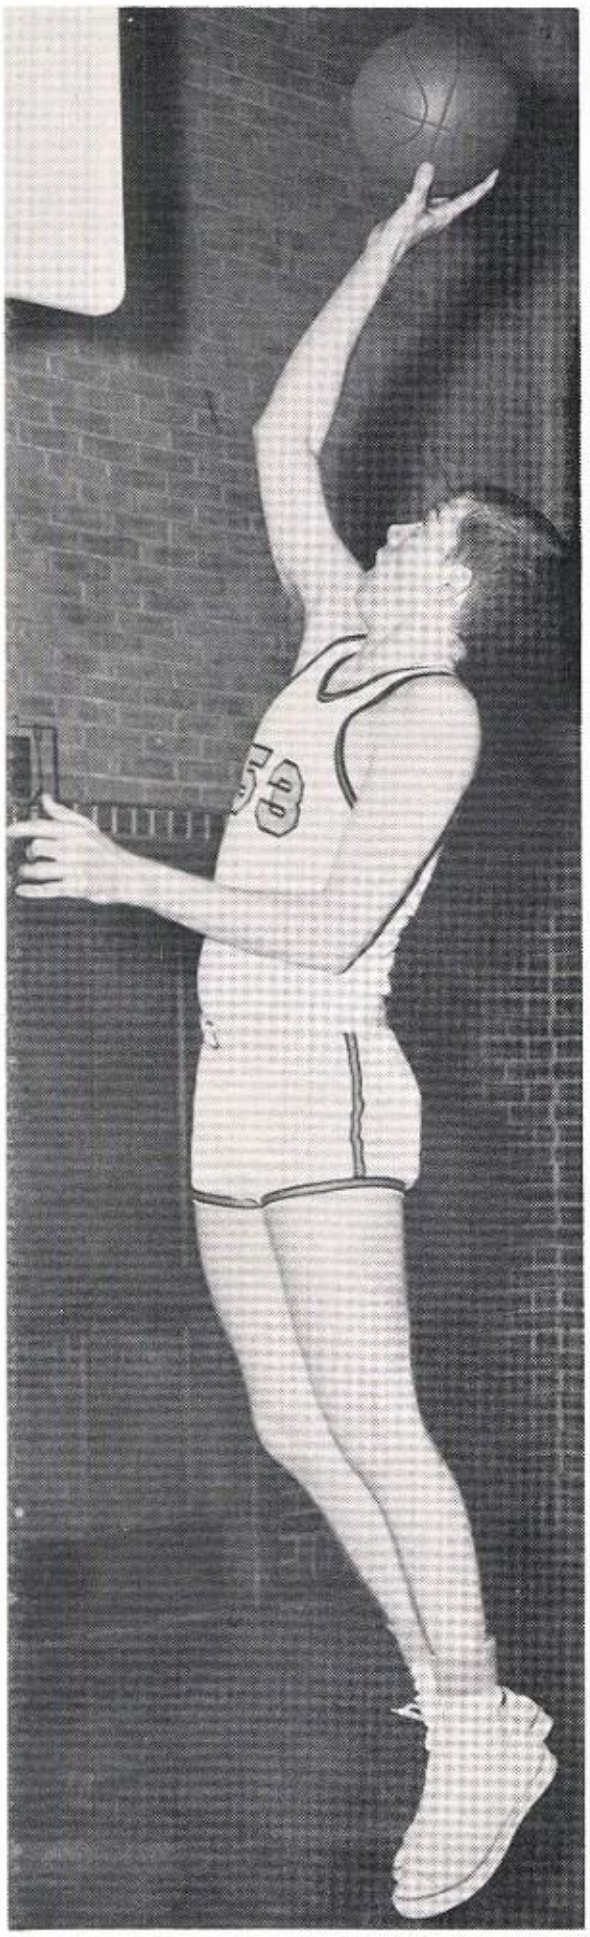


Joining the team this year, senior Jerry Moorman played aggressively while in action. A senior, he will not be back next season.



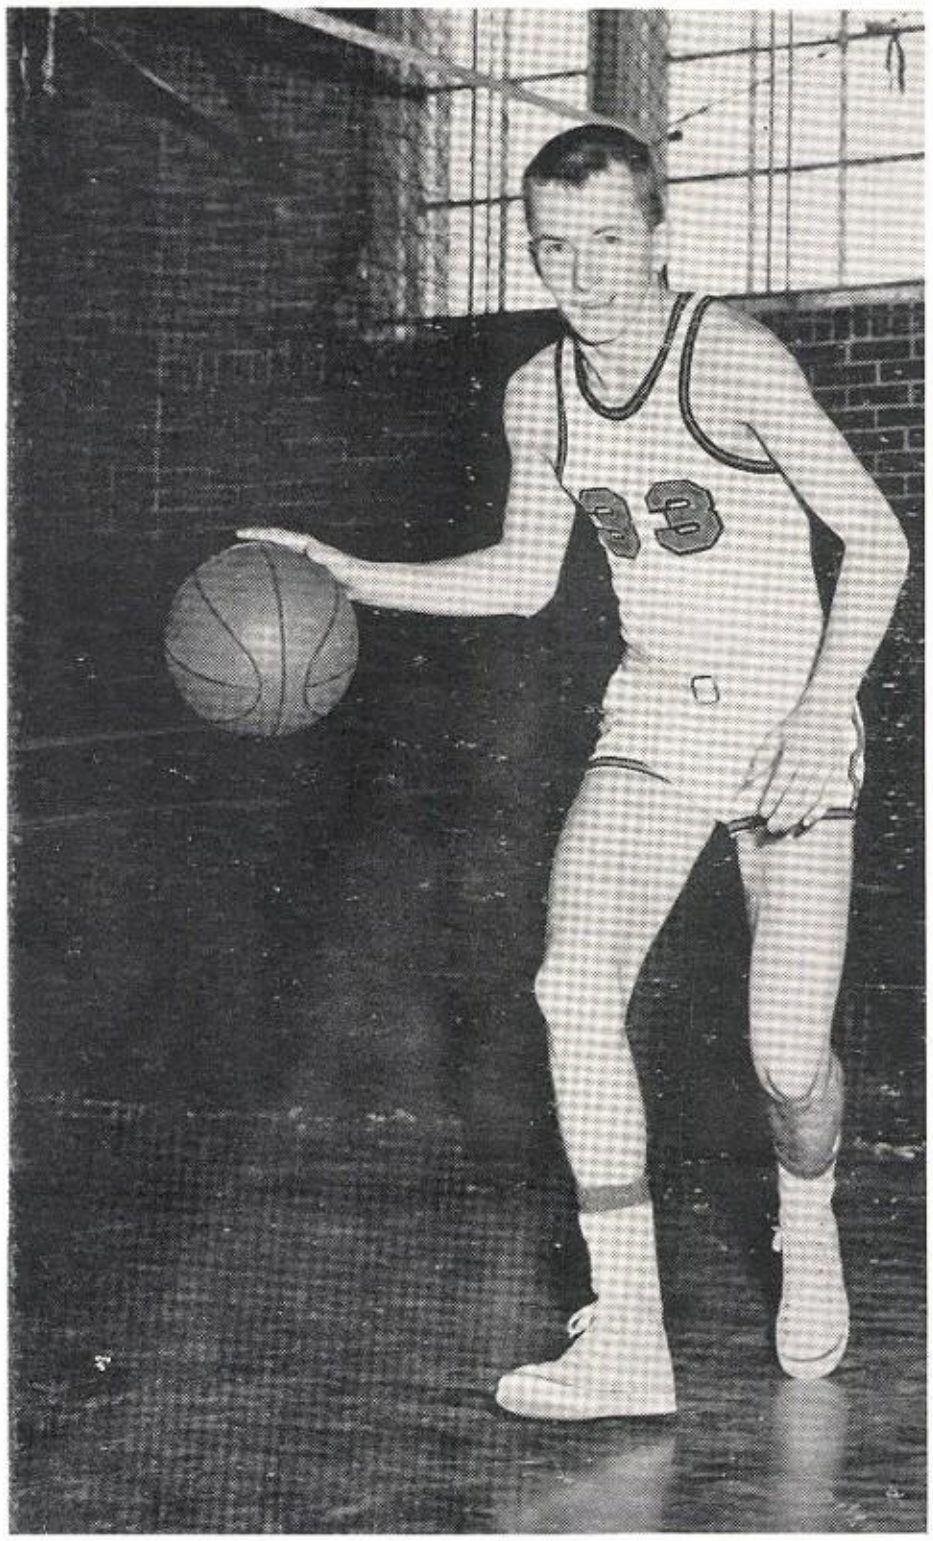


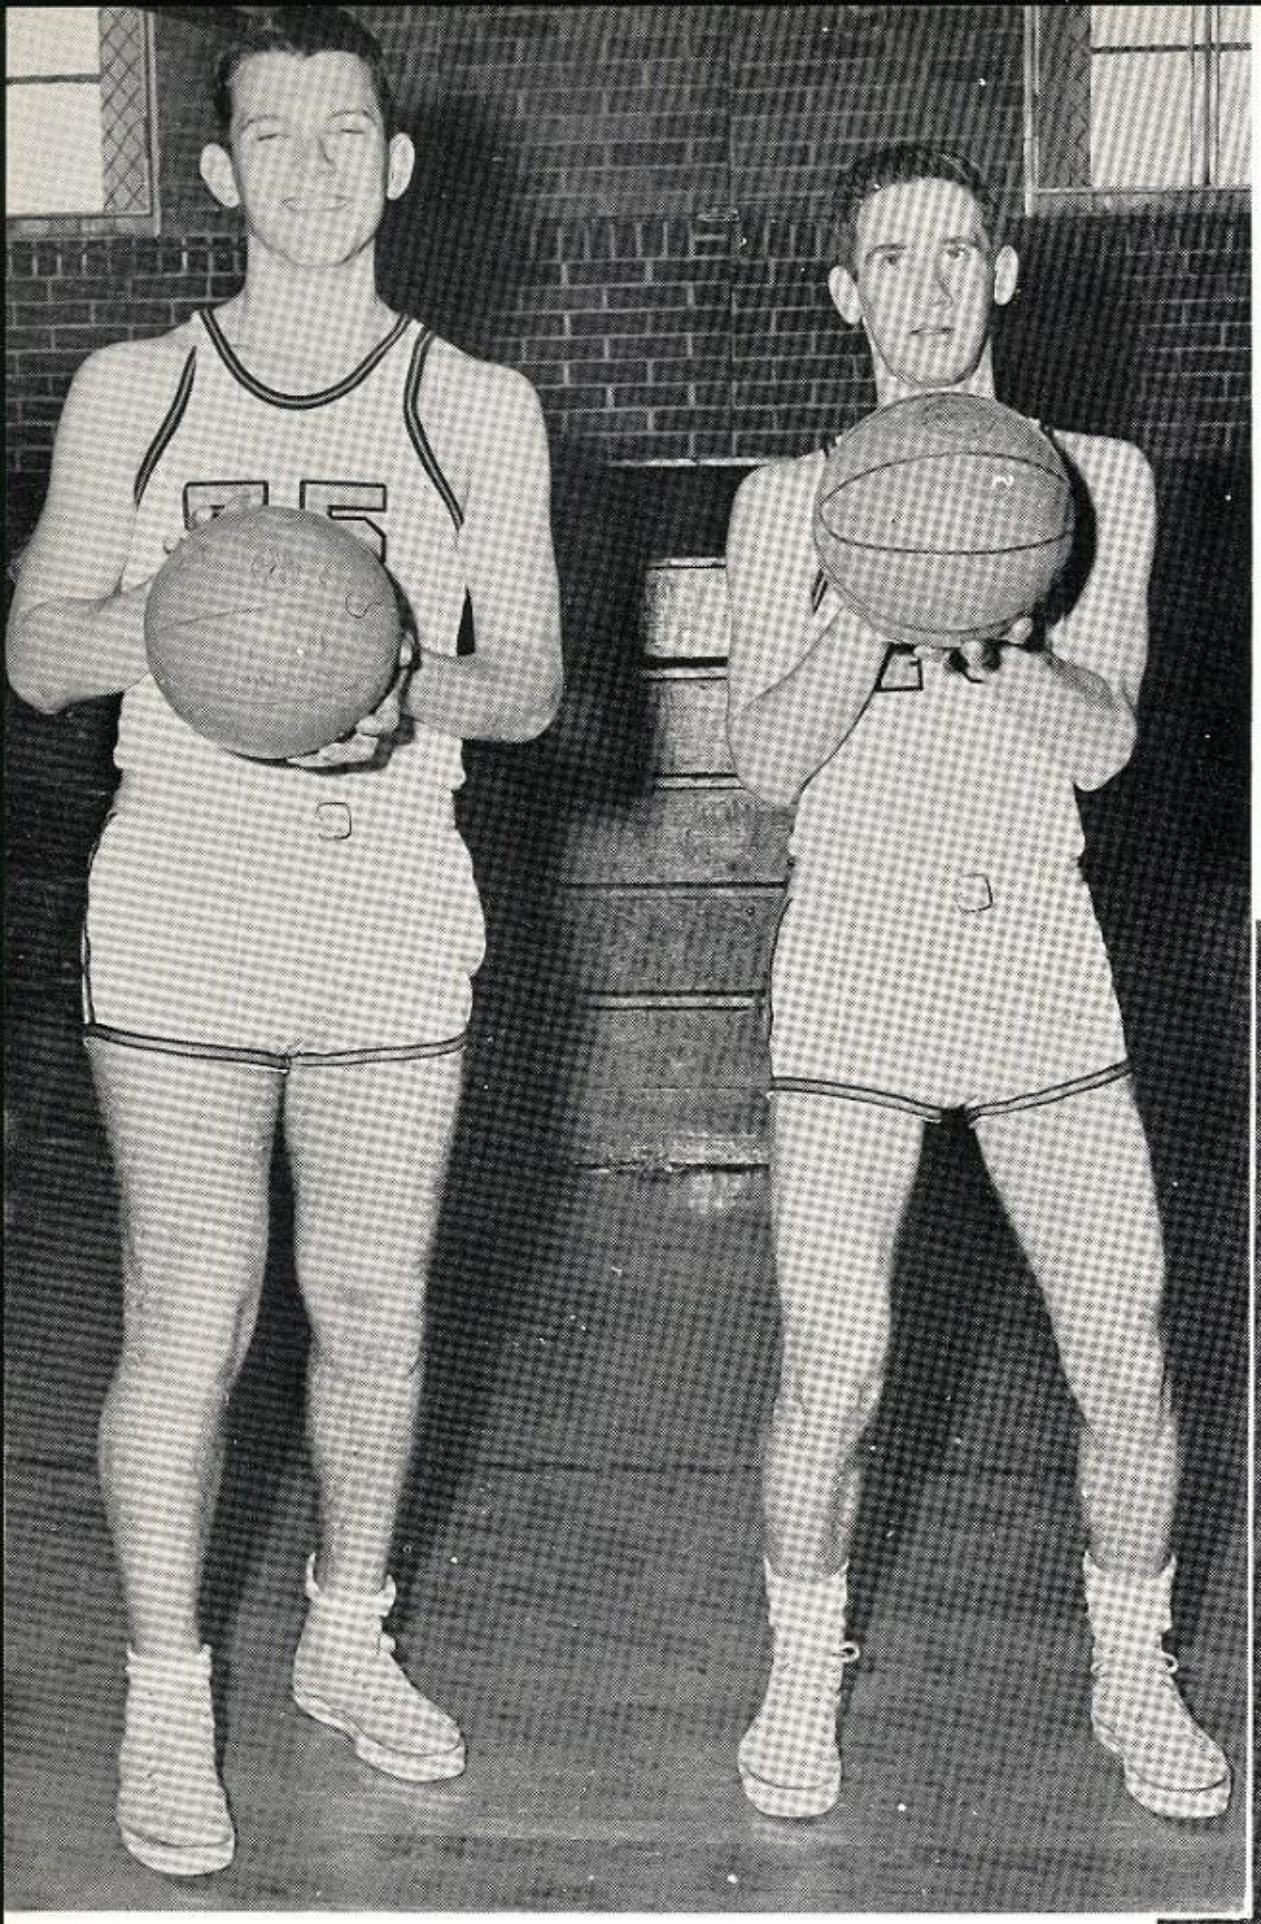
After spending last year as the club manager, Mike Powell joined the team this, his senior year. His playing on the court was very smooth.



Driving cribs, and stunning long shots, Dave Hill collected 44 per cent of his field goals — second among the starters. A two-year letterman, Dave achieved an equal rank in rebounding with a game average of 11. Dave connected with 60 per cent of his foul shots. Dave was named to the All-District second team in the Press and Star Telegram.

Quickness and agility aid guard Buddy Marshall's play. Another of the juniors on the squad, he will be returning next year.





A favorite of the team is Bill Neckar, two-year letterman. Bill possesses a natural touch on jump shots and lay-ups, and completed the slick guard combination. Connecting with 64 per cent from the free throw line, and consistent scoring earned him a place on the All-District teams of the Press, and the Star-Telegram.

Another of the big pivot men, Jon Scarborough is only a junior, but already well on his way to a good season next year. Despite his large stature, his actions are surprisingly quick.

Playing behind Poly's fine pair of starters, guard Kenny Gwyn was kept from seeing as much action as he would have otherwise. But with one more year's eligibility, he has a good chance to do well next season.

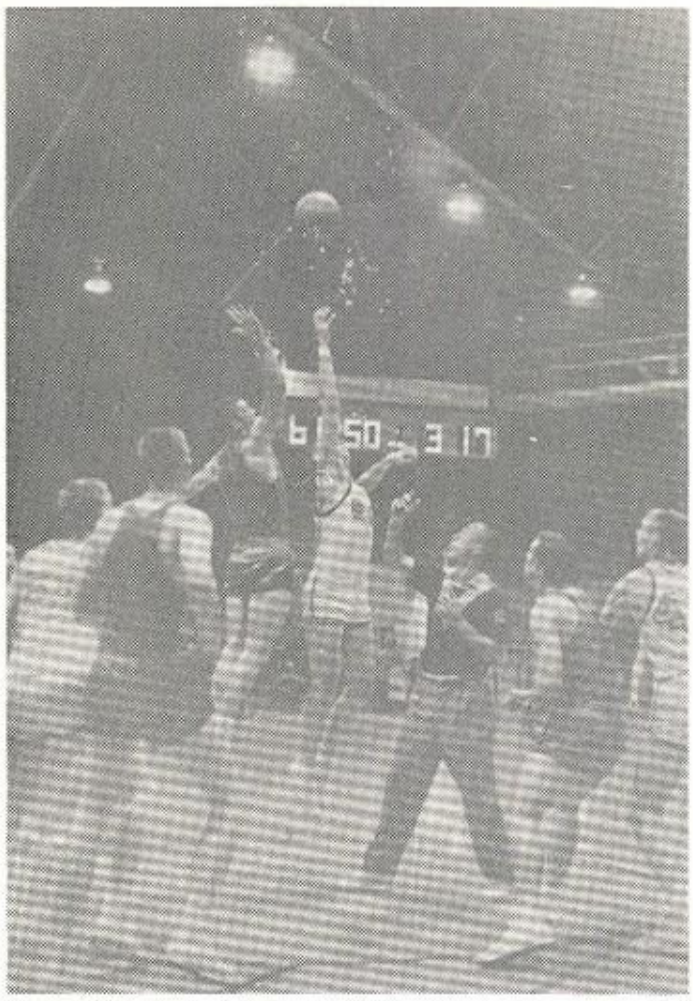
The managers and trainers taking care of the '59 Parrots were Calvin Dabney and Jimmy Lewis.

THE FIGHTING PARROTS

In a season crowded with suspense charged moments and a host of happy endings, the Parrot court men dribbled their way to the district championship. Toppling some of the strongest teams in the state, they hacked out an imposing pre-conference record.

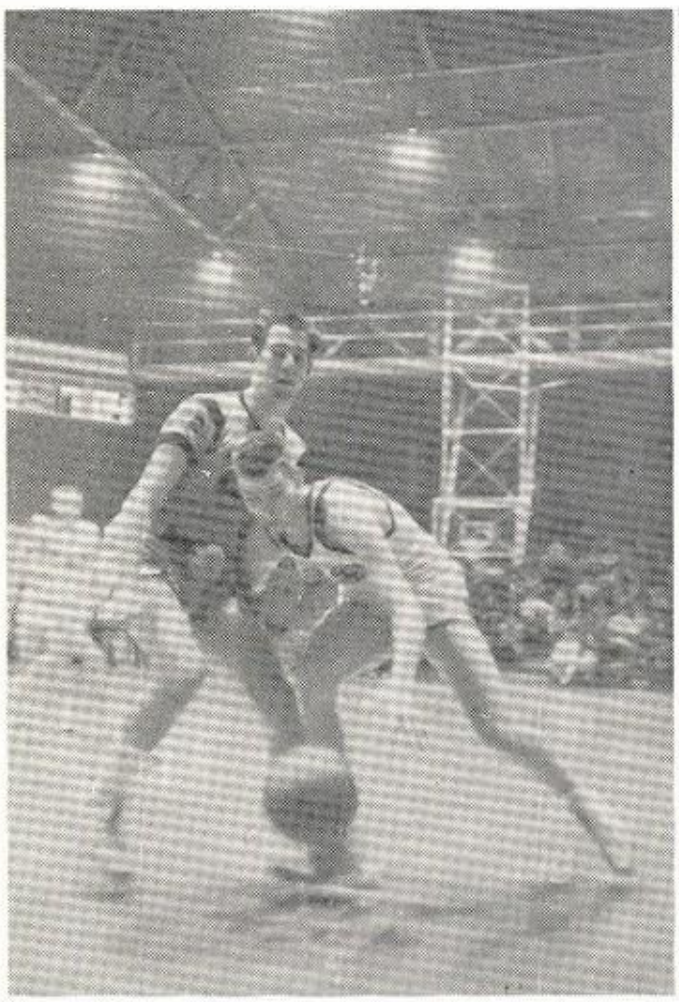


Tom Heikkinen gracefully executes a leap in the bid for the ball against Carter-Riverside.

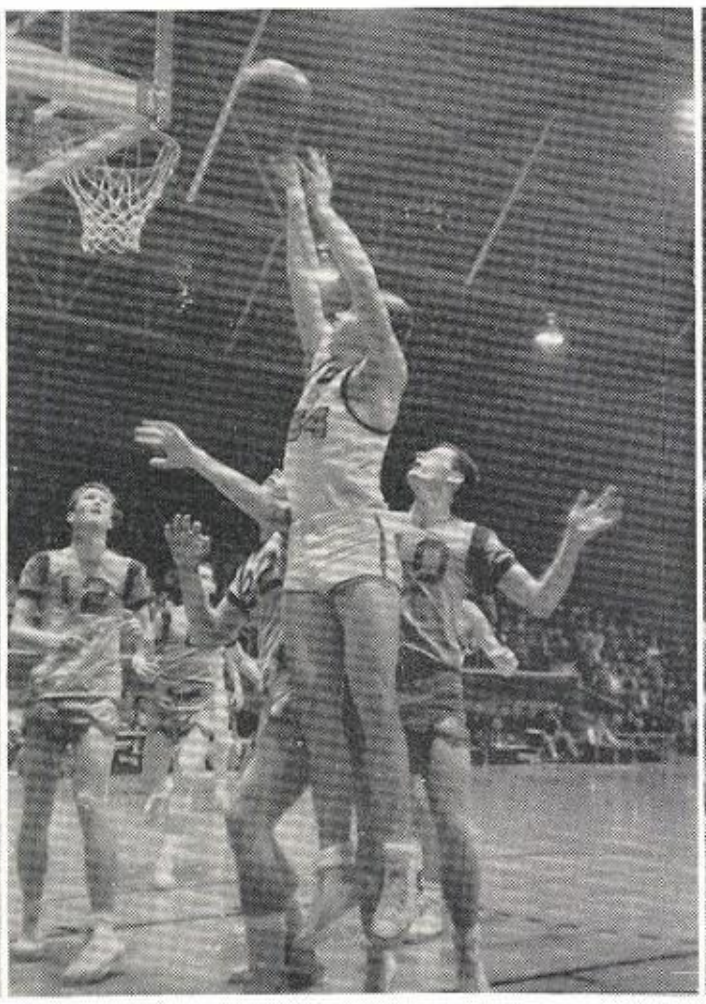
Visiting teams didn't find the Parrots too hospitable. Denton, Hillcrest, and Crozier Tech fell victims to the curse of foreign soil in the Poly gym. By reaching the semi-finals in three tournaments, the Orange men added a few more stars to their crown.

By the time district play opened, the fighting Parrots were ready to try their wings on the district title flight. In their conquest of the crown, Poly ran up against stiff opponents in Heights, Carter, and Paschal. Hectic games decided by hardly more than a single basket gave the Parrot fans more than one breathless moment.

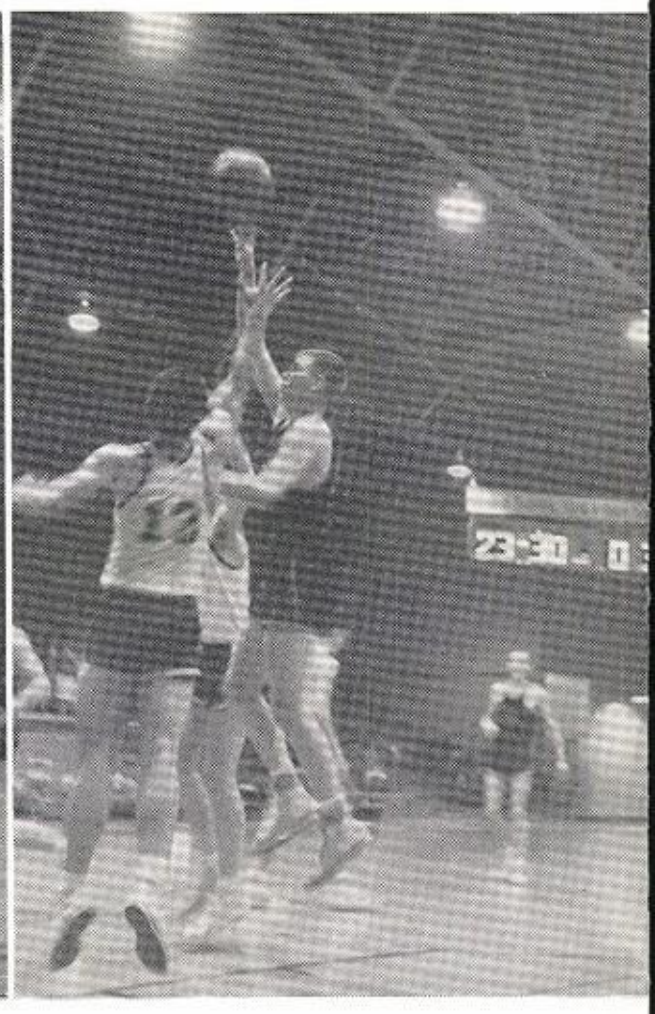
After blasting thru an undefeated conference season, Poly was thrown against South Oak Cliff of Dallas for bi-district play. The Dallas team eked out a meager three point victory over the ever-hustling Parrots to ring down the curtain on one of the most exciting seasons witnessed.



Dave Hill charges in against Paschal's Mike Adams, as the Poly ace tries for another two points.

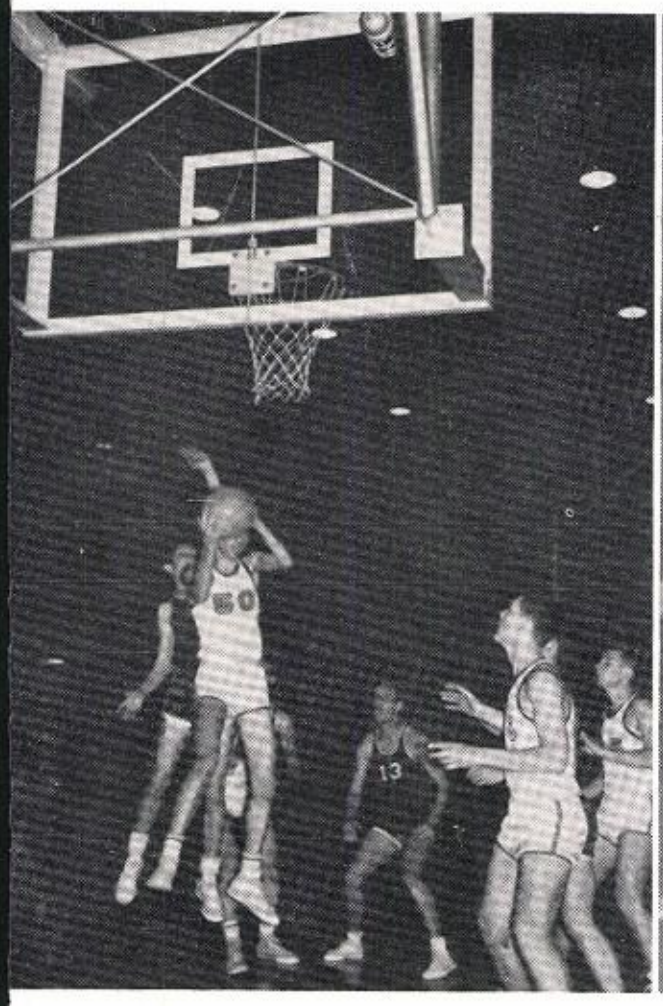


Tom Heikkinen gets up on the boards to steal another rebound from the Paschal players.

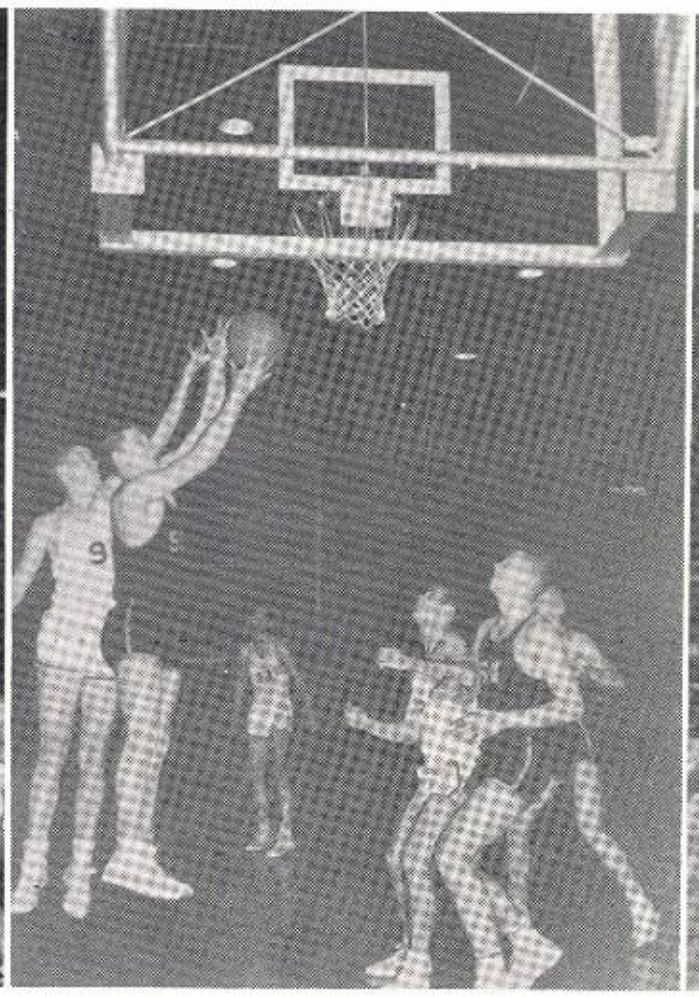


Dave Hill sails in through the Tech defense for a quick two points.

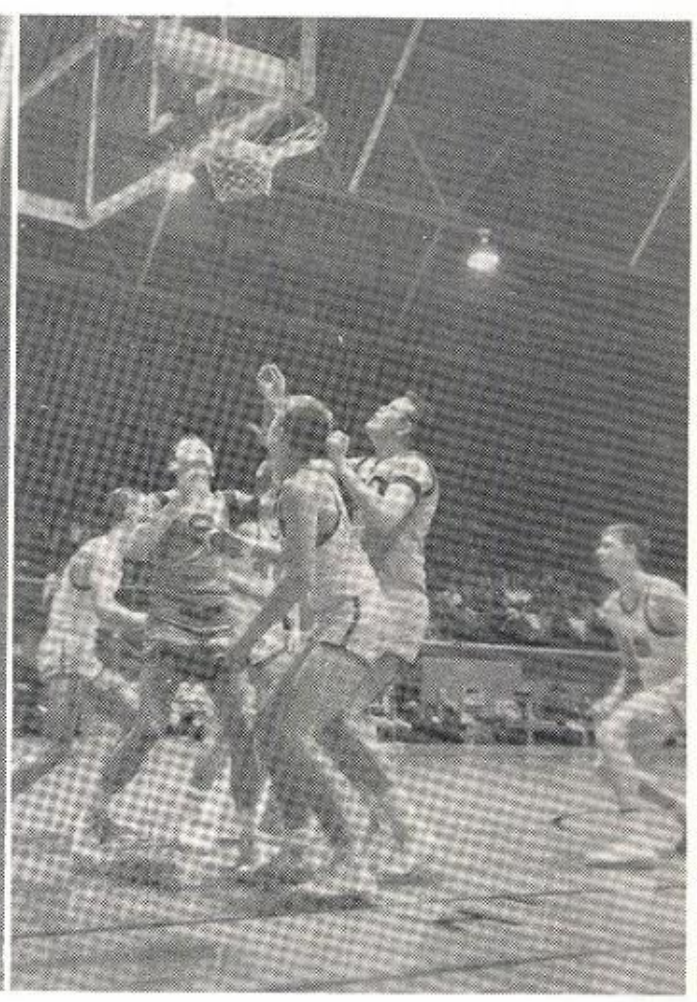
Tom Heikkinen watches Dave Hill's shot swish through as Paschal players look on.



Penetrating the Northside defense, Dave Hill goes up for an easy two.



Ben Neel comes down off the boards with a rebound in the Tech game.



Even more glory was gained by the talented round-ballers as post season honors were handed out. One of the city's scoring leaders, Tommy Robbins, was selected for the mythical all-state second team. His teammates, Tom Heikkinen and Bill Neckar were chosen for the all-district team; Dave Hill, the second team. The whirl-wind season was a credit to Coach Weldon Moody, who stepped into the nerve-jarring job just last fall.

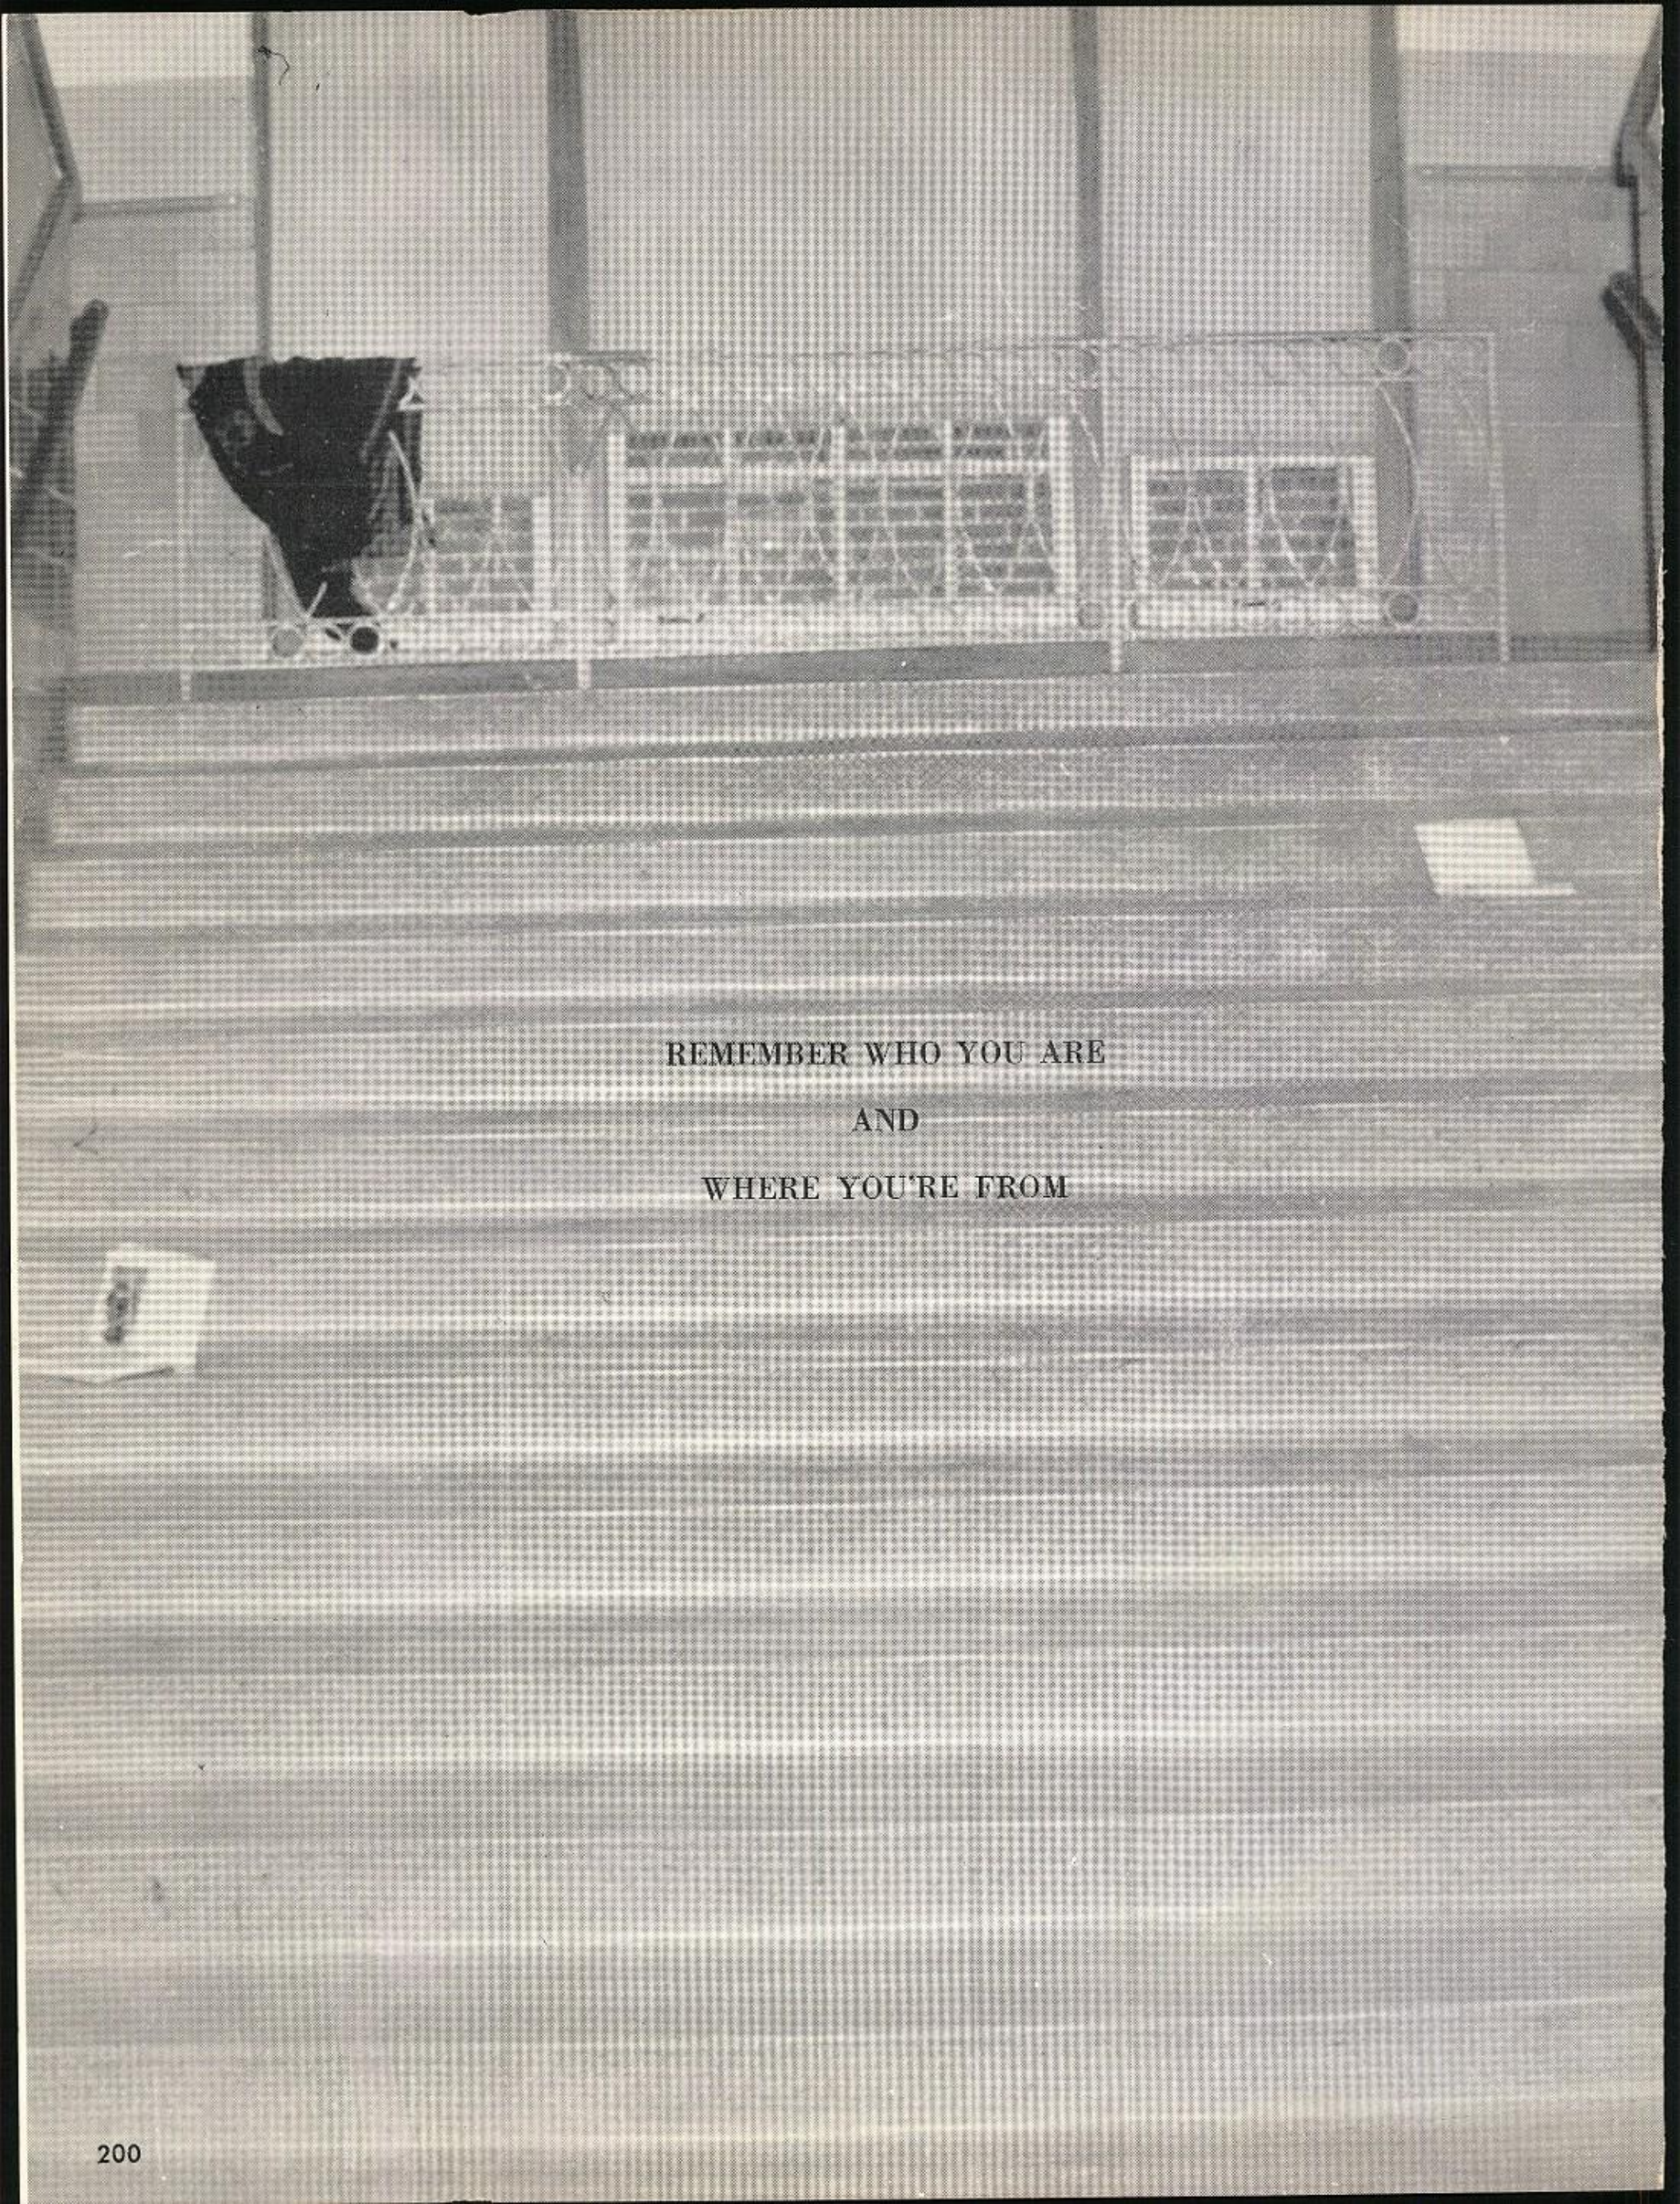
Completing the Parrots' battery are outfielders Mike Aton, Jim Humphery, Gailand Priddy, Paul Rodriguiz, and Walter Hoover waiting with their favorite weapons at the plate.



REMEMBER WHO YOU ARE

AND

WHERE YOU'RE FROM

Dear Jay,

You certainly deserve the very best that life has to offer. May you always remain the way you are now and you'll be perfect. May God always richly bless you and guide you.

Love,
Lonnie

Dear Jay,
I see you are a cute and sweet girl. Your friendly personality caused me to like you alot. I wish you best wishes to you in the future.

Love,
Linda Ann

Dear Jay,
I've really enjoyed your class. You have a pleasant personality. It's been a pleasure knowing you. Such a personality as yours will always remain with me. Keep smiling.

Love,
Bunny

Dear Jay:
I have just had three years spent with you that I will always remember. You've been an inspiration to me and personality for me, good humor and personality for me, fun. You've been more than an instructor to me, you've been a friend. I cannot express what a first person to help me with my surroundings when I came to Fort Worth, you were the first person to help me with my surroundings and face. For your generosity and good ana face. You are as loving a person as anyone could hope to find, and I will pray that you will be in much of more know that you will pray that you already have. May the all wishes than you already have. May the Lord bless you and keep you safe for all those who love you.

Love always,
Nettie Berg
